Redesigning The American Dream Gender Housing And Family Life:

Redesigning The American Dream Revised And Updated Dolores Hayden, 2002-09-03 In a provocative critique of American housing patterns that perpetuate Victorian stereotypes of the home as woman's place and the city as man's world urban historian and architect Dolores Hayden tallies the personal and social costs that an architecture of gender creates for the two earner family the single parent family and single people She traces three models of home in historical perspective to document innovative alternatives for reconstructing neighborhoods Redesigning the American Dream Dolores Hayden, 1986 The noted feminist theorist argues for a new conception of architectural design and outlines housing plans that will support new patterns of nurturing and opportunity for a range of individuals and families American Indians and the American Dream Kasey R. Keeler, 2023-05-23 Understanding the processes and policies of urbanization and suburbanization in American Indian communities Nearly seven out of ten American Indians live in urban areas yet studies of urban Indian experiences remain scant Studies of suburban Natives are even more rare Today's suburban Natives the fastest growing American Indian demographic highlight the tensions within federal policies working in tandem to move and house differing groups of people in very different residential locations In American Indians and the American Dream Kasey R Keeler examines the long history of urbanization and suburbanization of Indian communities in Minnesota At the intersection of federal Indian policy and federal housing policy American Indians and the American Dream analyzes the dispossession of Indian land property rights and patterns of home ownership through programs and policies that sought to move communities away from their traditional homelands to reservations and later to urban and suburban areas Keeler begins this analysis with the Homestead Act of 1862 then shifts to the Indian Reorganization Act in the early twentieth century the creation of Little Earth in Minneapolis and Indian homeownership during the housing bubble of the early 2000s American Indians and the American Dream investigates the ways American Indians accessed homeownership working with and against federal policy underscoring American Indian peoples unequal and exclusionary access to the way of life known as the American dream Cover alt text Vintage photo of Native person bathing smiling child in the sink of a midcentury kitchen Title in yellow

How We Live Now Bella DePaulo, 2015-08-25 A close up examination and exploration How We Live Now challenges our old concepts of what it means to be a family and have a home opening the door to the many diverse and thriving experiments of living in today's America Across America and around the world in cities and suburbs and small towns people from all walks of life are redefining our lifespaces the way we live and who we live with The traditional nuclear family in their single family home on a suburban lot has lost its place of prominence in contemporary life Today Americans have more choices than ever before in creating new ways to live and meet their personal needs and desires Social scientist researcher and writer Bella DePaulo has traveled across America to interview people experimenting with the paradigm of how we live In How We Live Now she explores everything from multi generational homes to cohousing communities where one's family is made up of friends and neighbors to couples living apart together to single living and ultimately uncovers a pioneering landscape for living that throws the old blueprint out the window Through personal interviews and stories media accounts and in depth research How We Live Now explores thriving lifespaces and offers the reader choices that are freer more diverse and more attuned to our modern needs for the twenty first century and beyond

Space, Gender, Knowledge: Feminist Readings Linda McDowell, Joanne Sharp, 2016-04-29

Space Gender Knowledge is an innovative and comprehensive introduction to the geographies of gender and the gendered nature of spatial relations. It examines the major issues raised by women's movements and academic feminism and outlines the main shifts in feminist geographical work from the geography of women to the impact of post structuralism. In making their selection, the editors have drawn on a wide range of interdisciplinary material ranging across spatial scales from the body to the globe. The book presents influential arguments for the importance of the intersection between space and gender. Looking both at geography and beyond the discipline, it explores the gendered construction of space and the spatial construction of gender. Divided into a number of conceptual sections, each prefaced by an editorial introduction, this reader includes extracts from both landmark texts and less well known works, making it an indispensable introduction to this dynamic field of study.

Routledge Handbook of Gender and Environment Sherilyn MacGregor, 2017-07-14

The Routledge Handbook of Gender and Environment gathers together state of the art theoretical reflections and empirical research from leading researchers and practitioners working in this transdisciplinary and transnational academic field. Over the course of the book, these contributors provide critical analyses of the gender dimensions of a wide range of timely and challenging topics from sustainable development and climate change politics to queer ecology and interspecies ethics in the so called Anthropocene. Presenting a comprehensive overview of the development of the field from early political critiques of the male domination of women and nature in the 1980s to the sophisticated intersectional and inclusive analyses of the present, the volume is divided into four parts: Part I Foundations, Part II Approaches, Part III Politics, policy and practice, Part IV Futures. Comprising chapters written by forty contributors with different perspectives and working in a wide range of research contexts around the world, this Handbook will serve as a vital resource for scholars, students and practitioners in environmental studies, gender studies, human geography and the environmental humanities and social sciences, more broadly.

Key Thinkers on Cities Regan Koch, Alan Latham, 2017-05-22

Key Thinkers on Cities provides an engaging introduction to the dynamic intellectual field of urban studies. It profiles the work of 40 innovative thinkers who represent the broad reach of contemporary urban scholarship and whose ideas have shaped the way cities around the world are understood, researched, debated and acted upon. Providing a synoptic overview that spans a wide range of academic and professional disciplines, theoretical perspectives and methodological approaches, the entry for each key thinker comprises a succinct introduction and overview, intellectual biography and research focus, an explication of key ideas, contributions to urban studies. The book offers a fresh look at well known thinkers who have been foundational to urban scholarship, including Jane Jacobs, Henri Lefebvre, Manuel Castells and David Harvey. It also incorporates those who have helped to bring a concern for cities to more widespread audiences, such as Jan Gehl, Mike Davis and Enrique Peñalosa. Notably, the book also includes a range of thinkers who have more recently begun to shape the study of cities through engagements with art, architecture, computer modelling, ethnography, public health, post colonial theory and more. With an introduction that provides a mapping of the current
