Reform Of Prisoners 1830 1900:

The Reform of Prisoners Willam James Forsythe, 2020-09-10 This study first published in 1987 focuses on Victorian approaches to the moral reformation of prisoners and aims to emphasise the ways in which the human value and social inclusion of prisoners were pursued The author begins by discussing the evangelical view of social problems and human value in early industrial Britain as well as the associationist psychological analysis of human attitude developed by theorists from John Locke to Jeremy Bentham The workings of these two theoretical frameworks in the practice of British prisons are then analysed arguing that by 1860 both theories were basic to the approach to the incarceration of wrongdoers After 1860 the picture changed radically to an unambiguous deterrent severity This was linked to a more scientific and evolutionist analysis of human conduct and attitude theological objections to reformism were also brought into play In the last forty years of the nineteenth century prisoners came to be seen as constitutionally inferior beings for whom no hope of reform could be generally entertained This title will be of interest to students of history and of criminology English Society and the Prison Alyson Brown, 2003 This social history analyses a period in which the modern prison faced serious challenges both on practical philosophical grounds These included the use of prison to victimise the poor the disaffected political activists the failure to establish the prison as a satisfactory means of punishment Crime and Law in England, 1750-1840 Peter King, 2006-12-07 How was law made in England in the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries Through detailed studies of what the courts actually did Peter King argues that parliament and the Westminster courts played a less important role in the process of law making than is usually assumed Justice was often remade from the margins by magistrates judges and others at the local level His book also focuses on four specific themes gender youth violent crime and the attack on customary rights In doing so it highlights a variety of important changes the relatively lenient treatment meted out to women by the late eighteenth century the early development of the juvenile reformatory in England before 1825 i e before similar changes on the continent or in America and the growing intolerance of the courts towards everyday violence This study is invaluable reading to anyone interested in British political and legal history A History of Women's Prisons in England Susanna Menis, 2019-11-19 This book presents a revisionist prison history which brings to the forefront the relationship between gender and policy It examines women's prisons in England from the late 18th century to the beginning of the 20th century drawing attention to the detrimental effect the orthodox closed prison has on penal reform The text investigates the clash between what was conceptualised as desirable prison policy and the actual implementation and implications of such a penalty on the prisoner It challenges previous claims made about the invisibility of women prisoners in historical penal policy and provides an original analysis of the open prison taking HMP Askham Grange as a case study where the history of such an initiative is explored and debated Nineteenth-Century Crime and Punishment Victor Bailey, 2021-07-25 This four volume collection looks at the essential issues concerning crime and punishment in the long nineteenth century Through the presentation of primary source documents it explores the development of a modern pattern of crime and a modern system of penal policy and practice illustrating the shift from eighteenth century patterns of crime including the clash between rural custom and law and punishment unsystematic selective public and body centred to nineteenth century patterns of crime urban increasing and a metaphor for social instability and moral decay before a remarkable late century crime decline and punishment reform minded soul centred penetrative uniform and private in application The first two volumes focus on crime itself and illustrate the role of the criminal courts the rise and fall of crime the causes of crime as understood by contemporary investigators the police ways of knowing the criminal the role of moral panics and the definition of the criminal classes and habitual offenders The final two volumes explore means of punishment and look at the shift from public and bodily punishments to transportation the rise of the penitentiary the convict prison system and the late century decline in the prison population and loss of faith in the prison

Government and Community in the English Provinces, 1700-1870 David Eastwood, 1997-06-09 In this bold and original study David Eastwood offers a reinterpretation of politics and public life in provincial England He explores the ways in which power was exercised and reconstructs the social and cultural foundations of political authority in provincial England Professor Eastwood demonstrates the crucial role played by local elites in policy making and shows how English public institutions and political culture can only be understood in terms of the long run development of the English state

Captured by the Media Paul Mason, 2013-05-13 This book turns on the television opens the newspaper goes to the cinema and assesses how punishment is performed in media culture investigating the regimes of penal representation and how they may contribute to a populist and punitive criminological imagination It places media discourse in prisons firmly within the arena of penal policy and public opinion suggesting that while Bad Girls The Shawshank Redemption internet jail cams advertising and debates about televising executions continue to ebb and flow in contemporary culture the persistence of this spectacle of punishment its contested meaning and its politics of representation demands investigation Alongside chapters addressing the construction of popular images of prison and the death penalty in television and film Captured by the Media also has contributions from prison reform groups and prison practitioners which discuss forms of media intervention in penal debate This book provides a highly readable exploration of media discourse on prisons and punishment and its relationship to public attitudes and government penal policy At the same time it engages with the cultural turn within criminology and offers an original contribution to discussion of the relationship between prison public and the state It will be essential reading for students in both media studies and criminology as well as practitioners and commentators in these fields

Prison Worlds Didier Fassin, 2017-05-23 The prison is a recent invention hardly more than two centuries old yet it has become the universal system of punishment How can we understand the place that the correctional system occupies in contemporary societies What are the experiences of those who are incarcerated as well as those who work there To answer these questions Didier Fassin conducted a four year long study in a French short stay prison following inmates from their trial to their release He shows how the widespread use of imprisonment has reinforced social and racial inequalities and how advances in civil rights clash with the rationales and practices used to maintain security and order He also analyzes the concerns and compromises of the correctional staff the hardships and resistance of the inmates and the ways in which life on the inside intersects with life on the outside In the end the carceral condition appears to be irreducible to other forms of penalty both because of the chain of privations it entails and because of the experience of meaninglessness it comprises Examined through ethnographic lenses prison worlds are thus both a reflection of society and its mirror At a time when many countries have begun to realize the impasse of mass incarceration and question the consequences of the punitive turn this book will provide empirical and theoretical tools to reflect on the meaning of punishment in contemporary societies
