Placemaking for Green Urban Regeneration Israa Hanafi Mahmoud, 2022-10-19 This book investigates the dynamics and the role of green urban regeneration using nature-based solutions (NBS) in contributing to the cultural aspects of public spaces. In the first part of the book, insights on analytical methods, planning strategies and shared governance examples are given, as well as an assessment tool, namely public space index (PSI), is given for successfully measuring sociability impact while using a placemaking approach to green urban regeneration processes. In the second part, the case study Rose Kennedy Greenway of Boston, MA, USA, has been extensively researched during many years of observations and analysis, which gives a realistic taste of the implementation of the proposed PSI. The book's last part reflects on PSI to measure its adaptability and replicability in other contexts, whereas NBS are playing a major role in physical and spatial green urban regeneration in current cities contexts. Spon's Landscape

Regenerating Urban Land Rana Amirtahmasebi,Mariana Orloff,Sameh Wahba,Andrew Altman,2016-06-02

Regenerating Urban Land draws on the experience of eight case studies from around the world The case studies outline various policy and financial instruments to attract private sector investment in urban regeneration of underutilized and unutilized areas and the requisite infrastructure improvements In particular each case study details the project cycle from the scoping phase and determination of the initial amount of public sector investment to implementation and subsequent leveraged private sector funds This manual analyzes rates of return on the investments and long term financial sustainability Regenerating Urban Land guides local governments to systematically identify the sequence of steps and tasks needed to develop a regeneration policy framework with the participation of the private sector The manual also formulates specific policies and instruments for expanding private sector participation structuring effective administrative and legal frameworks utilizing land readjustment assembly methods determining duration of contracts adequate phasing and timeline and balancing the distribution of risk and sustainability measures Hybrid Modernity Mary Padua,2020-07-26 This book provides a detailed historical and design analysis of the development of parks and modern landscape architecture in late 20th century China It questions whether the fusion of international influences with the local Chinese design vocabulary in late 20th century China has created a distinctive and novel approach to the design of public parks Hybrid Modernity proposes a new theory for examining the design of public parks built in post Mao China since the reforms and sets the various processes for China's late 20th century socio cultural context Drawing on modernization theory research on China's modernity local and global cultural trends it illustrates through a range of case studies ways hybrid modernity defines a new design genre and language for the spatial forms of parks that emerged in China's secondary cities Featured case studies include the Living Water Park in Chengdu Sichuan province Zhongshan Shipyard Park in Guangdong Province Jinji Lake Landscape Master Plan in Suzhou Jiangsu province and the West Lake Southern Scenic Area Master Plan in Hangzhou Zhejiang province This book argues that these forms represent a new stage in China's history of landscape architecture The work reveals that as a new profession landscape architecture has greatly contributed to China's massive urban experiment This book is an ideal read for students enrolled in landscape architecture architecture fine arts and urban planning programs who are engaged in learning the arts and international design education

Operative Landscapes Alissa North, 2013-02-01 There are infinite ways to build a community yet the defining feature of any community is characteristically the landscape Whether it is a park a river corridor community gardens a plaza or a streetscape the public spaces where people interact provide a shared sense of ownership and the qualities of these spaces influence how the communities evolve In a systematic overview following the workflow sequence of open space projects the book explores the various types and levels of intervention from masterplanning to guerilla gardening and from land reclamation to building in existing fabric Case studies mostly from North America Europe and Asia accompany the introductory essays The emphasis is on strategies of interaction between landscape projects building development and urban planning resulting in neighborhoods and city quarters that offer a higher quality of life Beyond trendy theories on landscape urbanism or landscape infrastructure this book offers an unideological view on the pragmatic potentials of landscape design for enhancing the built environment

Whose Public Space? Ali Madanipour, 2010-01-21 Public spaces mirror the complexities of urban societies as historic social bonds have weakened and cities have become collections of individuals public open spaces have also changed from being embedded in the social fabric of the city to being a part of more impersonal and fragmented urban environments Can making public spaces help overcome this fragmentation where accessible spaces are created through inclusive processes This book offers some answers to this question through analysing the process of urban design and development in international case studies in which the changing character level of accessibility and the tensions of making public spaces are explored The book uses a coherent theoretical outlook to investigate a series of case studies crossing the cultural divides to examine the similarities and differences of public space in different urban contexts and its critical analysis of the process of development management and use of public space with all its tensions and conflicts While each case study investigates the specificities of a particular city the book outlines some general themes in global urban processes It shows how public spaces are a key theme in urban design and development everywhere how they are appreciated and used by the people of these cities but also being contested by and

Creating Mixed Communities through Housing Policies Anna Maria

Santiago, Iris Levin, Kathy Arthurson, 2024-02-08 This book focuses on socially mixed e.g. by income, tenure, ethnicity or any other characteristic communities developed through housing renewal and critically examines the policies and practices in view of the growing urban inequality. The volume expands the discussion to the second phase of social mix, social mix version 2.0, and offers constructive reflections on how social mix can be better conceived and delivered with fewer negative side effects. The chapters in this book cover diverse national contexts and policy backgrounds and represent the perspectives of many key stakeholders including national and local governments, services and NGOs, developers and most importantly residents. Chapters present diverse case studies from Europe, the Middle East, Africa, India, Australia and the United States and discuss projects that range in scale from small housing initiatives to neighborhoods and to whole districts. They focus on diverse experiences of social mix between university students and young professionals and low income social housing tenants; between older low income residents and younger middle class residents; between diverse ethnic and social class groups sharing a neighborhood; and between private and public housing residents. Chapters also vary on the tools used to create social mix, from local non-for-profit initiatives, a national policy intervention and urban policies that aim to enhance social mix. Lastly, the book shows the range of analytical tools researchers have used to understand the diverse appearances of social mix, its underlying goals and its consequent outcomes. These include comparative analyses of social mix in diverse national and political settings including the Global East; an evaluation of social mix from the perspective of social justice; a historical analysis of the development of an urban district; and a design analysis of urban renewal projects. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Journal of Urban Affairs.
