

A modern, eclectic living room interior. The room features a dark brick wall, several large, colorful, dome-shaped pendant lights hanging from the ceiling, and a white modular sofa with various cushions and a red knitted blanket. A small wooden coffee table with three legs holds some items. The floor is covered with a large, multi-colored patterned rug. In the background, there is a wooden cabinet and a window with a yellow woven hanging. The text "Things They Don't Teach You In School" is overlaid in a blue serif font on a semi-transparent white oval background.

Kissability Katherine Duke,2014-10-17 I feel my disability walks ten feet in front of me which is good and bad depending on the person who is walking the other way I wonder if I should even be apologizing to anyone I've hurt in my past After all I can't help my diagnosis I can't help the fact that I do these things If I could jump then I'd probably jump up and down on the couch like Tom Cruise did on OPRAH I'm so in love now These are just a few of the fascinating responses that Katherine Duke received when she asked her fellow disabled people about their love lives In KISSABILITY Katherine and forty other individuals from around the world open up about their bodies minds and hearts Their words interweave to create a book about differences and common bonds about inner selves and outward appearances about change and acceptance and about the many ways that people need and connect with one another

Things My Mother Didn't Teach Me Linnet

Dave,2025-02-01 The book emerges from personal experience and intense struggle against the norms that are accepted as a result of our conditioning while living in a patriarchal society We wish to live in a society with no gender discrimination Until and unless we teach our children to respect and value women not only through words but actions we cannot eliminate gender discrimination Often mothers tell their children Girls should know how to cook Girls should not revolt against sexual harassment Women should always sacrifice Women are great at multitasking etc An underlying message goes out clear and loud to children that women are supposed to be submissive and should never raise their voices Is this the kind of world we aim to create for our children It's time to raise our children differently The onus lies with each one of us especially mothers
