Tell-Tales Various, 2015-03-28 Every person has a tale to tell a short story in them a glimpse into someone else's life and the things that have happened to them. Everyone has a voice but not everyone has the courage to use it to tell their tales with honesty and conviction. We found our voices over coffee and treats at Libby's in Marple Bridge one dismal Wednesday morning in January. An idea was formed when a group of like-minded women friends decided to try to write some of these stories down to raise money for The Christie Hospital in Manchester. None of us has made any money from the writing of these stories. Sounds easy, doesn't it? The first part, perhaps the most difficult part, was finding what to write about, experimenting with rhythm, style, tone, and words to express our stories in a way we hoped would be of interest to someone else. But as our confidence increased and we bounced stories and ideas around between each other, writing and rewriting, we discovered that we liked the sound of our own voices. So here are our offerings. We hope you will enjoy them, read them, and hopefully return to them occasionally. We hope to entertain you and to make you reflect on your own lives and experiences as you share ours. Sally Clegg, Sharon Goddard, Joint Editors. Fiction is the art of the possible, of making imaginary words real, of being able, if only in a limited word count, to put this world to rights. The best fiction is challenging and yet familiar, complex and yet sure of itself, able to disrupt or ruffle but also able to smooth out differences, to restore, to heal. The stories in Tell Tales know a thing or two about the challenges of living and how they are to be overcome by generosity, attention, and good faith. The stories presented here anonymously, in a spirit of inclusiveness, all too rarely encountered, speak to lives that are knotty and difficult and at times impossible, as all our lives frequently are. They are sharp and clever, funny and kind. So is the project. All proceeds from the sale of this anthology go to the Christie Hospital, which does such excellent work in caring for those who most need our care. I am happy to support this book and I urge you to buy it for yourself and for everyone you know to take heart from its big heart and to enjoy it as I have done. Vona Groarke, Senior Lecturer in Creative Writing, University of Manchester.

Bad Choices Make Good Stories: The Strange True Story of the First Influencer Oliver Markus Malloy, 2020-07-27. Special Anniversary Omnibus. Get all three books for the price of one ____ Part 1: Going to New York ____ The strange true story of the first influencer. Oliver, a hacker living in Germany, meets Donna online. She's an American girl living in New York. After chatting and talking on the phone for months, he finally decides to surprise her with a visit. But he soon finds out that things are not what they appeared to be, and that this visit will change his life forever. Nobody has ever killed themselves over a broken arm. But every day, thousands of people kill themselves because of a broken heart. Why? Because emotional pain hurts much worse than physical pain. Oliver Markus Malloy, Bad Choices Make Good Stories. Don't ever think you're better than a drug addict because your brain works the same as theirs. You have the same circuits. And drugs would affect your brain in the same way it affects theirs. The same thought process that makes them screw up over and over again would make you screw up over and over as well if you were in their shoes. You probably already are doing it, just not with heroin or crack, but with food or cigarettes or something else you shouldn't be doing. Oliver Markus Malloy, Bad Choices Make Good Stories. A must-read. One of those rare books that sucks you in from the first to the last page. Amazon.
