"The" End of Capitalism (as We Knew It) J. K. Gibson-Graham, 2006-03-24 In the mid 1990s at the height of academic discussion about the inevitability of capitalist globalization J K Gibson Graham presented a groundbreaking and controversial argument for envisioning alternative economies. This new edition includes an introduction in which the authors address critical responses to The End of Capitalism and outline the economic research and activism they have been engaged in since the book was first published. Paralyzing problems are banished by this dazzlingly lucid creative and practical rethinking of class and economic transformation. Meaghan Morris, Lingnan University, Hong Kong. Profoundly imaginative. Eve Kosofsky Sedgwick, City University of New York. Filled with insights it is clearly written and well supported with good examples of actual deconstructive practices. International Journal of Urban and Regional Research. J K Gibson Graham is the pen name of Katherine Gibson and Julie Graham, feminist economic geographers who work respectively at the Australian National University in Canberra and the University of Massachusetts Amherst.

The Poverty of Life-Affirming Work Mechthild Hart, 2001-12-30 While society may applaud middle and upper class women who decide to stay home to raise their children, there exists a decided abhorrence for single mothers welfare queens who collect public funds but do not work. Here Hart challenges traditional notions of welfare mothers by providing first hand accounts of poor urban mothers and revealing the life affirming and moral aspects of their motherwork, a form of subsistence work involving many tasks that incorporate the physical, psychological, emotional and spiritual dimensions of life. Though the mothering work these women do is vilified in public discourse as unnecessary and unwanted, the author contends that the ethical and epistemological dimensions of life affirming work, a key component of motherwork, not only structure social political activism but also educational efforts that are oriented towards radical change. Concrete experiences of motherwork, policy analyses regarding welfare reform efforts oriented towards educational and epistemological border crossings and collective struggles for social change are examined here in a larger theoretical political economic framework. Pulling together the many strands of different theoretical fields addressing issues related to critical transformative pedagogy, community activism and forms of unpaid work, this unique work calls for the unlearning of ways of thinking and feeling which uphold prejudices and life threatening social political hierarchies. While the public may sneer at women who choose to accept welfare in order to stay home to raise their children, these mothers must continue to perform this invisible work in order that their children may break the cycle of poverty in which they are entrenched. The author examines ways in which these mothers organize and carry out educational efforts and political work in the context of extreme poverty and against the harsh criticisms of an unforgiving public. Ultimately Hart hopes to convince the public of the inherent importance of motherwork and break down the prejudices that have worked against the urban poor and single mothers An Ethics of Place Mick Smith, 2001-03-29 Adopts ecological theory to critique confront and suggest solutions for contemporary cultural problems Mysterious Skin Santiago Fouz-Hernández, 2009-03-30 Borrowing its title from Gregg Araki's 2005 film in which the camera's contemplation of the male body encourages us to feel that body and covering a broad span of subjects and films Mysterious Skin offers a wider more representative picture of the depiction of the male body in contemporary world cinemas than has hitherto been attempted An international array of major experts explore the treatment of masculinity and the male body in the cinemas of Africa Australia China France Germany Great Britain India North America Spain Taiwan and Vietnam as well as Hollywood Their common concern is to reveal how the representation of the male body is used in films to convey a country's anxieties about its national identity and history as well as how it engages with questions of racial sexual or gender politics They discuss key actors directors and films of these countries from Ewan MacGregor in Peter Greenaway's The Pillow Book through the films of Wong Kar Wai to Paul Hogan as Mick Dundee in Crocodile Dundee In so doing Mysterious Skin also provides a strong overview of important cinema produced around the world in the last twenty years The Price of Motherhood Ann Crittenden, 2002 A former New York Times reporter tackles the difficult issue of gender economic equality confronting the financial penalties levied on motherhood

Posthumanism and the Man Question Ulf Mellström, Bob Pease, 2022-12-30 This book brings together the emerging insights of what posthumanism new materialism and affect theory mean for the man question The contributors to this book interrogate the question of how Man as a gendered being is entangled with nature culture materiality and corporeality and they explore ways to unsettle men's sense of sovereignty to decentre anthropocentric masculinity Men have to move from the centre of privilege which grants them supremacy before they can open themselves to the decentred embodied affective vulnerable and relational self that is necessary to embrace the posthuman This book explores the extent to which this is possible The book will be of interest to academics students and scholars across a range of disciplines who are engaging with the intersections of feminist studies with posthumanism and new materialism especially as they relate to critical studies of men and masculinities Chapters on fathering pornography ageing affect embodiment entanglements with technology and nature and the implications of these issues for changing men and masculinities and the politics of critical masculinity studies engagement with posthuman feminisms will interest students and academics across these diverse disciplines Routledge International Encyclopedia of Women Cheris Kramarae, Dale Spender, 2004-04-16 For a full list of entries and contributors sample entries and more visit the Routledge International Encyclopedia of Women website Featuring comprehensive global coverage of women's issues and concerns from violence and sexuality to feminist theory the Routledge International Encyclopedia of Women brings the field into the new millennium In over 900 signed A-Z entries from US and Europe Asia the Americas Oceania and the Middle East the women who pioneered the field from its inception collaborate with the new scholars who are shaping the future of women's studies to create the new standard work for anyone who needs information on women related subjects Eco-Impacts and the Greening of Postmodernity Tom Jagtenberg, David

McKie, 1996-11-07 Addressing a growing need to examine environmental issues from a cultural perspective this innovative book adopts a cultural studies approach to reach a deeper understanding of the significance of ecological issues in our lives Eco Impacts and the Greening of Postmodernity explores such vital questions as Can nature survive How do academic disciplines engage with environmental crises And how do we map sustainable futures The authors Tom Jagtenberg and David McKie bring a body of relevant literature into the debate that stems from both cultural and environmental issues as well as their own multidisciplinary perspectives on the subject Gender and Sexuality Chris Beasley, 2005-05-20 About various theories of gender sexuality feminism and masculinity including queer theory transgender theorizing modernist liberationism and social constructionism Revisioning Gender Myra Marx Ferree, Judith Lorber, Beth B. Hess, 1999 This comprehensive handbook summarizes the state of gender studies by examining the crucial research of the past decade and by encouraging thinking about how the questions central to studying gender have themselves changed The book is an important step towards constructing a new analytical framework approach for the social sciences one that calls into question disciplinary boundaries The contributors illustrate how the use of gender by scholars in various and overlapping fields of study has helped alter concepts and research designs
