Investigating and harnessing T-cell functions with engineered immune receptors and their ligands Bruno Laugel, 2015-01-22 T cells are an essential component of the immune system that provide protection against pathogen infections and cancer and are involved in the aetiology of numerous autoimmune and autoinflammatory pathologies Their importance in disease the relative ease to isolate expand and manipulate them ex vivo have put T cells at the forefront of basic and translational research in immunology Decades of study have shed some light on the unique way T cells integrate extrinsic environmental cues influencing an activation program triggered by interactions between peptide MHC complexes and the antigen recognition machinery constituted of clonally distributed T cell receptors and their co receptor CD4 or CD8 The manipulation of these molecular determinants in cellular systems or as recombinant proteins has considerably enhanced our ability to understand antigen specific T cell activation to monitor ongoing T cell responses and to exploit T cells for therapy Even though these principles have given numerous insights in the biology of CD8 T cells that translate into promising therapeutic prospects as illustrated by recent breakthroughs in cancer therapy they have proven more challenging to apply to CD4 T cells This Research Topic aims to provide a comprehensive view of the recent insights provided by the use of engineered antigen receptors and their ligands on T cell activation and how they have been or could be harnessed to design efficient immunotherapies proponents of the use of these techniques have argued that they produced actionable intelligence in the war on terror This edition of The Black Banners explodes this myth it shows Soufan at work using guile and intelligent questioning not force or violence to extract some of the most important confessions in the war and it vividly recounts the failures of the government s torture program Drawing on Soufan s experiences as a lead operative for the FBI and declassified government records The Black Banners Declassified documents the intelligence failures that lead to the tragic attacks on New York and Washington DC and subsequently how torture derailed the fight against al Qaeda With this edition eighteen years on from the first sanctioned enhanced interrogation technique the public can finally read the complete story of what happened in their name after the events of 9 11 The Black Banners Declassified includes a new foreword from Ali Soufan that addresses the significance of the CIA s decision to lift the redactions

Home + Bound Lilian Chee, Melany Sun-Min Park, 2013 HOME BOUND brings together six Master of Architecture dissertations 2009 2011 from the National University of Singapore The essays engage with the notion of domesticity set within the geographical bounds of Southeast Asia more specifically Singapore and Malaysia Theoretical framework including those of Michel Foucault Sigmund Freud Jacques Derrida and Anthony Vidler are surveyed against local sites interwoven with varying scales tropes mis conceptions and antinomies of domesticity a Chinese cemetery Singapore s public Housing Development Board flats the older Singapore Improvement Trust flats its National Day Parade sites a haunted house a rural kampong village some national monuments and a Straits Chinese patriarch s mansion in Penang What does it mean to be at home in a context where land and space are both limited and contentious The ideals of stability attached to conceptions of being at home were retrogressive and antithetical to being modern a fixation in Singapore and Southeast Asia s post war milieu which continues to thrive under presuppositions of change and subsequent adaptations The authors thus collectively front home as a destabilised ideology and a constantly evolving physical construct This volume does not privilege the distinction between loss and recuperation of domestic sites and ideologies or the ensuing difficulties of their reconciliation Rather it highlights the inseparable conditions between the recovery of domestic ideals and the agents who formulate such ideals

The Syntax-Morphology Interface Matthew

Baerman,Dunstan Brown,Greville G. Corbett,2005-09-15 Syncretism where a single form serves two or more morphosyntactic functions is a persistent problem at the syntax morphology interface It results from a mismatch whereby the syntax of a language makes a particular distinction but the morphology does not This pioneering book provides a full length study of inflectional syncretism presenting a typology of its occurrence across a wide range of languages The implications of syncretism for the syntax morphology interface have long been recognised it argues either for an enriched model of feature structure thereby preserving a direct link between function and form or for the independence of morphological structure from syntactic structure This book presents a compelling argument for the autonomy of morphology and the resulting analysis is illustrated in a series of formal case studies within Network Morphology It will be welcomed by all linguists interested in the relation between words and the larger units of which they are a part
