Shaihu Umar A Historical Novel About Slavery In Africa:

Slavery in the History of Muslim Black Africa Humphrey J. Fisher, 2001-08 Utilizing the accounts of observers and those who participated in the institution of slavery slavers travellers and slaves themselves and the records kept by the judicial institutions of Islam Fisher African history U of London explores the political religious economic and social forces surrounding the growth and legitimization of the institution of slavery in Muslim Africa from the 10th century to the 19th century He explains how the institution differed in nature and harshness both geographically and across time offering stories where slaves were relatively well treated and rose to prominent places in society as well as stories in which slaves were treated brutally and often rebelled Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Shaihu Umar: Slavery in Africa Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, 1989 Northern Nigeria just before the turn of the century a time of unrest and civil war when the trans Saharan slave trade still flourished Against this turbulent backdrop is set the story of the Hausa a black African people who practice the Islamic religion This great African family saga written by the first Federal Prime Minister of Nigeria focuses on the struggles of young Umar and his mother and describes Umar s dramatic journey across the desert with a slave caravan Rich in adventure it also provides a rare and vivid glimpse into the lives of women and children in a black Islamic society and their survival in a troubled age Shaihu Umar: Slavery in Africa Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, 1989 A family saga written by the first Federal Prime Minister of Nigeria It focuses on the struggles of Umar and his mother and describes Umar s dramatic journey across the desert with a slave caravan It provides a glimpse into the lives of women and children in a black Islamic society Pre-Colonial Africa in Colonial African Narratives Donald R. Wehrs, 2016-04-08 In his study of the origins of political reflection in twentieth century African fiction Donald Wehrs examines a neglected but important body of African texts written in colonial English and French and indigenous Hausa and Yoruba languages He explores pioneering narrative representations of pre colonial African history and society in seven texts Casely Hayford s Ethiopia Unbound 1911 Alhaji Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa s Shaihu Umar 1934 Paul Hazoum s Doguicimi 1938 D O Fagunwa s Forest of a Thousand Daemons 1938 Amos Tutuola s The Palm Wine Drinkard 1952 and My Life in the Bush of Ghosts 1954 and Chinua Achebe s Things Fall Apart 1958 Wehrs highlights the role of pre colonial political economies and articulations of state power on colonial era considerations of ethical and political issues and is attentive to the gendered implications of texts and authorial choices By positioning Things Fall Apart as the culmination of a tradition rather than as its inaugural work he also reconfigures how we think of African fiction His book supplements recent work on the importance of indigenous contexts and discourses in situating colonial era narratives and will inspire fresh methodological strategies for studying the continent from a multiplicity of perspectives Telling Stories, Making Histories Mary Wren Bivins, 2007-03-30 Through reconstruction of oral testimony folk stories and poetry the true history of Hausa women and their reception of Islam s vision of Muslim in Western Africa have been uncovered Mary Wren Bivins is the first author to locate and examine the oral texts of the 19th century Hausa women and challenge the written documentation of the Sokoto Caliphate. The personal narratives and folk stories reveal the importance of illiterate non elite women to the history of jihad and the assimilation of normative Islam in rural Hausaland. The captivating lives of the Hausa are captured shedding light on their ordinary existence as wives mothers and providers for their family on the eve of European colonial conquest.

Religion and the Making of Nigeria Olufemi Vaughan, 2016-12-09 In Religion and the Making of Nigeria Olufemi Vaughan examines how Christian Muslim and indigenous religious structures along with the legacies of British colonial rule have provided the essential social and ideological frameworks for the construction of contemporary Nigeria.

Slavery in Africa Suzanne Miers, Igor Kopytoff, 1977 This collection of sixteen short papers together with a complex and very much longer introductory essay by the editors on African Slavery as an Institution of Marginality constitutes an impressive attempt by anthropologists and historians to explore describe and analyze some of the various kinds of human bondage within a number of precolonial African societies. It is important to note that in spite of the precolonial emphasis of the volume all of the essays are based at least partly on anthropological or ethnohistorical field research carried out since 1959. All but one have been augmented greatly by more conventional historical research in published as well as archival sources. And although the volume's focus is upon the structures and conditions of servitude within the several African societies described many of the essays illustrate and some discuss the conceptual as well as the practical difficulties of separating the institutions and customs of domestic African slavery from those of the European dominated commercial slave trade in which many of the societies participated from JSTOR <http://www.jstor.org> May 24 2013

A History of Race in Muslim West Africa, 1600-1960 Bruce S. Hall, 2011-06-06 The mobilization of local ideas about racial difference has been important in generating and intensifying civil wars that have occurred since the end of colonial rule in all of the countries that straddle the southern edge of the Sahara Desert. From Sudan to Mauritania the racial categories deployed in contemporary conflicts often harken back to an older history in which blackness could be equated with slavery and non blackness with predatory and uncivilized banditry. This book traces the development of arguments about race over a period of more than 350 years in one important place along the southern edge of the Sahara Desert the Niger Bend in northern Mali. Using Arabic documents held in Timbuktu as well as local colonial sources in French and oral interviews Bruce S Hall reconstructs an African intellectual history of race that long predated colonial conquest and which has continued to orient inter African relations ever since.

Literatures in African Languages B. W. Andrzejewski, S. Pilaszewicz, W. Tyloch, 1985-11-21 Although African literatures in English and French are widely known outside Africa those in the African languages themselves have not received comparable attention. In this book a number have been selected for survey by fourteen specialist writers providing the reader with an introduction to this very wide field and a body of reference material which includes extensive bibliographies and biographical information on African authors.

Theoretical issues such as genre divisions are discussed in the essays and the historical social and political forces at work in the creation and reception of African literature are examined Literature is treated as an art whose medium is language so that both the oral and written forms are encompassed This book will be of value not only to readers concerned with the cultures of Africa but to all those with an interest in the literary phenomena of the world in general Shaihu Umar Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa,1967

Islam and Blackness Jonathan A.C. Brown,2022-11-03 It is commonly claimed that Islam is antiblack even inherently bent on enslaving Black Africans Western and African critics alike have contended that antiblack racism is in the faith's very scriptural foundations and its traditions of law spirituality and theology But what is the basis for this accusation Bestselling scholar Jonathan A C Brown examines Islamic scripture law Sufism and history to comprehensively interrogate this claim and determine how and why it emerged Locating its origins in conservative politics modern Afrocentrism and the old trope of Barbary enslavement he explains how antiblackness arose in the Islamic world and became entangled with normative tradition From the imagery of blackened faces in the Quran to Shariah assessments of Black women as undesirable and the assertion that Islam and Muslims are foreign to Africa this work provides an in depth study of the controversial knot that is Islam and Blackness and identifies authoritative voices in Islam's past that are crucial for combatting antiblack racism today

Trans-Saharan Trade Routes Matt Lang, 2017-07-15 Between the sixth and sixteenth centuries trade flourished between sub Saharan Africa and Arab cultures Traders exchanged gold slaves cloth and salt along the trans Saharan routes This trade was directly responsible for seismic shifts in African economies and the foundation of new empires This book explores how this complex trade network shaped the history of Africa the Middle East and Europe Literature from the Peripheries Anjum Khan, Shubhanku Kochar, 2022-12-19 Literature from the Peripheries Refrigerated Culture and Pluralism is a collection of chapters dealing with multiple minority cultures from all over the world The book examines the status of several less known cultures or cultural communities which exist in the peripheries of space and time In addition to this the arguments and the discourses running through chapters prove the need of cultural diversity and pluralism This well thought and critically written book is a clarion call for humanity to look over the shoulder and see the ghost of civilization receding farther away The book will interest the readers scholars practitioners and activists who like to explore several cultures and cultural conflicts
