Rainforest Relations:

RAIN FOREST RELATIONS Melissa Leach, 1994-08-17 Centering on the Mende speaking people living around the Gola forest reserves in Sierra Leone Rainforest Relations shows how local communities and individuals in rainforest regions use and view forest resources amid international environmental scrutiny and changing socioeconomic conditions Leach argues that if both the rainforests and their human inhabitants are to survive conservation policies must refocus to address local interests in general and women's interests in particular Drawing on anthropological fieldwork in Mende communities Leach details day to day interaction with the environment examining labor and tenure arrangements gathered products and their markets hunting and fishing practices and crop types She focuses on different women's and men's experiences and their access to use and control of the land She shows how links between local women and their environment depend on dynamic gender relations in agriculture forest resource use and social life This gender study is placed in the context of both an overview of West African conservation agendas over the past century and an examination of the strengths and weaknesses of ecofeminism and other currently popular approaches to women and the environment BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved

Rainforest Relations Melissa Leach, 1994 With environmental change and conservation in West Africa's tropical rainforests becoming topics of increasing political and academic interest this book brings a fresh set of perspectives to the debate those of the forest dwellers themselves Based on her detailed field research in the Mende communities around Gola North Forest reserve and surveying the recent debates and literature concerning forest conservations and current analytical approaches to gender and the environment Melissa Leach examines the importance of rainforest resources to the local economy and social relations and shows that neither an understanding of forest use and change nor adequate conservation policies can be achieved without a concern for gender

Australian rainforests Human-Environment Relations Emily Brady, Pauline Phemister, 2012-02-02 This fresh and innovative approach to human environmental relations will revolutionise our understanding of the boundaries between ourselves and the environment we inhabit The anthology is predicated on the notion that values shift back and forth between humans and the world around them in an ethical communicative zone called value space The contributors examine the transformative interplay between external environments and human values and identify concrete ways in which these norms residing in and derived from self and society are projected onto the environment Tropical Rainforests Eldredge Bermingham, Christopher W. Tropical Rainforest Responses to Climatic Change Mark B. Bush, John Flenley, 2007 The goal of this book is to provide a current overview of the impacts of climate change on tropical forests to investigate past present and future climatic influences on the ecosystems with the highest biodiversity on the planet Tropical Rainforest Responses to Climatic Change will be the first book to examine how tropical rain forest ecology is altered by climate change rather than simply seeing how plant communities were altered Shifting the emphasis onto ecological processes e.g how diversity is structured by climate and the subsequent impact on tropical forest ecology provides the reader with a more comprehensive coverage A major theme of this book that emerges progressively is the interaction between humans climate and forest ecology While numerous books have appeared dealing with forest fragmentation and conservation none have explicitly explored the long term occupation of tropical systems the influence of fire and the future climatic effects of deforestation coupled with anthropogenic emissions Incorporating modelling of past and future systems paves the way for a discussion of conservation from a climatic perspective rather than the usual plea to stop logging Ecofeminist Natures Noel Sturgeon, 2016-01-08 Examining the development of ecofeminism from the 1980s antimilitarist movement to an internationalist ecofeminism in the 1990s Sturgeon explores the ecofeminist notions of gender race and nature She moves from detailed historical investigations of important manifestations of US ecofeminism to a broad analysis of international environmental politics Ecofeminism and Globalization Lois Ann Lorentzen, Heather Eaton, 2004-09-08 Discusses ecofeminism in the context of the social political and ecological consequences of globalization The book includes case studies essays theoretical works and articles on ecofeminist movements from many of the world's regions including Taiwan Mexico Kenya Chile India Brazil Canada England and the United States Rainforest Organizations Steve Shipp, 1997 Rainforests home to more than half of all plant and animal species on earth while covering less than six percent of the world's land area have intricate ecosystems with multitudes of animal and plant species including humans. Yet deforestation of the rainforests has greatly increased in the past half century. Ten thousand years ago rainforests covered an estimated 9.5 million square miles but as millions of trees are lost daily to agricultural and commercial development, scientific studies project the reduction of rainforests to six million square miles by the year 2000 and 3.5 million square miles by 2050. Numerous scientific, political, conservationist, public information, and other organizations have been formed to address every aspect of rainforests; over 120 worldwide can be found in this directory. Each entry lists the address, phone number, contact person, e-mail, or Internet address if available, mission statement or goals, publications, and often the group's history and current projects. All listed agencies and organizations readily accept queries for information about rainforests and most invite participation in their activities and projects.

Shady Practices Richard A. Schroeder, 1999. In this engaging and exceptionally well-crafted case study, Schroeder shows clearly how local dynamics intersect with wider processes. Changes in cropping patterns, land rights, work routines, and gender politics were shaped by multiple struggles and interactions among women and men, landholders and land users, farmers, government officials, and representatives of various international agencies. Sara Berry, author of No Condition Is Permanent.

Labour in Southeast Asia Becky Elmhirst, Ratna Saptari, 2004-05-07. In seeking to provoke debate, the book reveals the variety of experiences evident in countries and regions marked by capitalist and post-socialist regulatory frameworks and contrasting labour regimes, histories, and cultures. The contributions show the importance of critically examining both the complex nature of global-local links and the particular ways economic processes are around the themes of labour regimes, labour processes, labour mobility, and labour communities; the essays show how economic development is not only shaped by market forces but is also interlocked in systems of meaning.

The Environment in Anthropology, Second Edition Nora Haenn, Richard Wilk, Allison Harnish, 2016-04-26. Presents ecology and current environmental studies from an anthropological point of view. The Environment in Anthropology presents ecology and current environmental studies from an anthropological point of view. From the classics to the most current scholarship, this text connects the theory and practice in environment and anthropology, providing readers with a strong intellectual foundation as well as offering practical tools for solving environmental problems. Haenn, Wilk, and Harnish pose the most urgent questions of environmental protection: How are environmental problems mediated by cultural values? What are the environmental effects of urbanization? When do environmentalists' goals and actions conflict with those of indigenous peoples? How can we assess the impact of environmentally correct businesses? They also cover the fundamental topics of population growth, large-scale development, biodiversity, conservation, sustainable environmental management, indigenous groups, consumption, and globalization. This revised edition addresses new topics such as water, toxic waste, neoliberalism, environmental history, environmental activism, and REDD (Reducing Emissions from Deforestation and Forest Degradation) and situates anthropology in the multidisciplinary field of environmental research It also offers readers a guide for developing their own plan for environmental action This volume offers an introduction to the breadth of ecological and environmental anthropology as well as to its historical trends and current developments Balancing landmark essays with cutting edge scholarship bridging theory and practice and offering suggestions for further reading and new directions for research The Environment in Anthropology continues to provide the ideal introduction to a burgeoning field
