Fair, 2006 The rich artistic traditions of Alaska Natives are the subject of this landmark volume which examines the work of the premier Alaska artists of the twentieth century Ranging across the state from the islands of the Bering Sea to the interior forests Alaska Native Art provides a living context for beadwork and ivory carving basketry and skin sewing Examples of work from Tlingit Aleutian Islanders Pacific Eskimo Athapaskan Yupik and Inupiaq artists make this volume the most comprehensive study of Alaskan art ever published Alaska Native Art examines the concept of tradition in the modern world Alaska Native Art is a volume to treasure a tribute to the incredible vision of Alaska's artists and to the enduring traditions of all of Alaska's Native peoples The Tlingit Encounter with Photography Sharon Gmelch, 2008-10-31 Based on research in 13 North American archives including the Penn Museum's Shotridge Collection examination of hundreds of photographs and extensive oral history interviews with both Tlingit and non-Natives Sharon Bohn Gmelch presents valuable insights on the reactions of Native subjects to being photographed and their own early use of photography Today these now historical images are being reclaimed from public archives by the Tlingit contributing to a new sense of empowerment and pride in their rich heritage This is the first book to explore the photographic imagery of the Tlingit during a critical period of change from the 1860s through the 1920s It also provides the first full treatment of the Tlingit photography of Elbridge W. Merrill a neglected figure in the history of ethnographic photography The author has included 129 rare photographic images a map bibliography and index BOOK JACKET Humanities, 1989 Volksgeist as Method and Ethic George W. Stocking, 1996-07-01 Franz Boas the major founding figure of anthropology as a discipline in the United States came to America from Germany in 1886 This volume in the highly acclaimed History of Anthropology series is the first extensive scholarly exploration of Boas' roots in the German intellectual tradition and late nineteenth century German anthropology and offers a new perspective on the historical development of ethnography in the United States Global Trade and Visual Arts in Federal New England Patricia Johnston, Caroline Frank, 2014-11-04 A highly original and much needed collection that explores the impact of Asian and Indian Ocean trade on the art and aesthetic sensibilities of New England port towns in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries This diverse interdisciplinary volume adds to our understanding of visual representations of economic and cultural changes in New England as the region emerged as a global trading center entering the highly prized East Indies trades Examining a wide variety of commodities and forms including ceramics textiles engravings paintings architecture and gardens the contributors highlight New Englanders' imperial ambitions in a wider world This book will appeal to a broad audience of historians and students of American visual art as well as scholars and students of fine and decorative arts Philadelphia and the Development of Americanist Archaeology Don D. Fowler, David R. Wilcox, 2003-09-15 Contributors Lawrence E. Aten, Elin C. Danien, Don D. Fowler, Alice B. Kehoe, Frances Joan Mathien, Jerald T. Milanich, Robert L. Schuyler, Steven Conn, Regna Darnell, Curtis M. Hinsley, Eleanor M. King, David J. Meltzer, Jeremy A. Sabloff, David R. Wilcox Captured Heritage Douglas Cole, 2011-11-01 The heyday of anthropological collecting on the Northwest Coast took place between 1875 and the Great Depression. The scramble for skulls and skeletons, poles, canoes, baskets, feast bowls, and masks went on until it seemed that almost everything not nailed down or hidden was gone. The period of most intense collecting on the coast coincided with the growth of anthropological museums which reflected the realization that time was running out and that civilization was pushing the indigenous people to the wall, destroying their material culture and even extinguishing the native stock itself. Douglas Cole examines the process of collecting in the context of the development of museums and anthropology. The main North American museums with Northwest Coast collections: the Smithsonian Institution, the American Museum of Natural History, Chicago's Field Museum of Natural History, the Royal British Columbia Museum, and the Canadian Museum of Civilization in Ottawa were intense rivals in the race against time. For the new edition of Captured Heritage, Douglas Cole has written a preface in which he outlines developments since the book's first publication in 1985. Since that time, for example, the Kwagiwulth Museum and Cultural Center on Quadra Island and the U'mista Museum and Cultural Center at Alert Bay have been successful in having some of their artifacts repatriated.

American Studies Jack Salzman, 1990-05-25 This volume supplements the acclaimed three-volume set published in 1986 and consists of an annotated listing of American Studies monographs published between 1984 and 1988. There are more than 6,000 descriptive entries in a wide range of categories: anthropology and folklore, art and architecture, history, literature, music, political science, popular culture, psychology, religion, science and technology, and sociology. Humanities National Endowment for the Humanities, 1987 The Tlingit Indians George Thornton Emmons, Frederica De Laguna, 1991 This comprehensive study of the Tlingit Indians of southern Alaska and the coast of British Columbia is an edited version of manuscripts by the ethnographer G. T. Emmons, compiled in the 1880s and 1890s. Extensive bibliography and illustrations.

Through Time, Across Continents Dilys P. Winegrad, 1993-01-29 Established in 1887, the University of Pennsylvania Museum of Archaeology and Anthropology is one of the oldest institutions of its kind in the nation. With quotations from letters, journals, and field notes, and numerous archival photographs, this handsome oversized volume is not only a history of an influential institution but an important contribution to the history of archaeological and anthropological research.

Guide to the North American Ethnographic Collection at the University of Pennsylvania Museum of Archaeology and Anthropology University of Pennsylvania. Museum of Archaeology and Anthropology, Lucy Fowler Williams, 2003-04-18 Totalling approximately 40,000 objects, the University Museum's ethnographic holdings represent native peoples from ten North American culture areas: the Arctic, Subarctic, Northwest Coast, California Plateau, Great Basin,

Southwest Great Plains Northeast and the Southeast This guide highlights the strength of the collections and demonstrates how objects are tied to history and people living within different cultural and social contexts It also underscores that objects have different multiple meanings Some objects illustrate intertribal relations others best reflect collecting attitudes at the turn of the century when much of the Museum s collections was acquired Visitors and off site readers will learn about such related archival resources as documentation and photographs past and present Museum exhibitions current research repatriation and contemporary collections development Sharing Our Knowledge Sergei Kan, Steve

Henrikson, 2015-03-01 An edited volume of interdisciplinary collaborative research on Tlingit culture language and history

Unsettling Native Art Histories on the Northwest Coast Kathryn Bunn-Marcuse, Aldona Jonaitis, 2020-07-20 Inseparable from its communities Northwest Coast art functions aesthetically and performatively beyond the scope of non Indigenous scholarship from demonstrating kinship connections to manifesting spiritual power Contributors to this volume foreground Indigenous understandings in recognition of this rich context and its historical erasure within the discipline of art history By centering voices that uphold Indigenous priorities integrating the expertise of Indigenous knowledge holders about their artistic heritage and questioning current institutional practices these new essays unsettle Northwest Coast art studies Key themes include discussions of cultural heritage protections and Native sovereignty re centering women and their critical role in transmitting cultural knowledge reflecting on decolonization work in museums and examining how artworks function as living documents The volume exemplifies respectful and relational engagement with Indigenous art and advocates for more accountable scholarship and practices A Russian American Photographer in Tlingit Country Sergei Kan, 2014-06-17 This book is a rich record of life in small town southeastern Alaska in the late 1800s and early 1900s It is the first book to showcase the photographs of Vincent Soboleff an amateur Russian American photographer whose community included Tlingit Indians from a nearby village as well as Russian Americans so called Creoles who worked in a local fertilizer factory Using a Kodak camera Soboleff the son of a Russian Orthodox priest documented the life of this multiethnic parish at work and at play until 1920 Despite their significance few of Soboleff s photographs have been published since their discovery in 1950 Anthropologist Sergei Kan rectifies that oversight in A Russian American Photographer in Tlingit Country which brings together more than 100 of Soboleff s striking black and white images Combining Soboleff s photographs with ethnographic fieldwork and archival research Kan brings to life the communities of Killisnoo where Soboleff grew up and Angoon the Tlingit village The photographs gathered here depict Russian Creoles Euro Americans the operation of the Killisnoo factory and the daily life of its workers But Soboleff s work is especially valuable as a record of Tlingit life As a member of this multiethnic community he was able to take unusually personal photographs of people and daily life Soboleff s photographs offer candid and intimate glimpses into Tlingit people s then new economic pursuits such as commercial fishing selling berries and making Indian curios to sell to tourists Other images show white Creole and Native factory workers rubbing shoulders while keeping a certain distance during leisure time Kan offers readers historians and photography lovers a beautiful visual resource on Tlingit and Russian American life that shows how the two cultures intertwined in southeastern Alaska at the turn of the past century

An Exploration of Prehistoric Ontologies in the Bering Strait Region Feng Qu, 2021-01-07 This book introduces readers to the belief and symbolism present in the prehistoric art of the Bering Strait region For about a century the archaeology of this area has mainly focused on material economic and technological perspectives leaving studies of prehistoric spirituality religion and cosmology to be under conceptualized This text questions the nature of materiality and the relationship between it and spirituality It employs an analytical and methodological approach located within the frameworks of practice theory and animist ontologies to open up thought provoking avenues for interpretive possibility This book also provides new knowledge about the prehistoric material culture of ancient Inuit people and offers an assessment of contemporary archaeological theories such as cognitive archaeology structural archaeology and shamanism theory in order to examine the reliability of these theories in the studies of prehistoric art According to the ontological trend which has constituted a powerful challenge to traditional nature culture and body mind dichotomies this book reconsiders prehistoric Inuit cultures providing an analysis of therianthropic motifs on prehistoric ivories to explore potential shamanism within ontological and cosmological structures

Plundered Skulls and Stolen Spirits Chip Colwell, 2017-03-08 A leading anthropologist explores the fraught project of repatriating Native American sacred objects in this moving and thoughtful work Publishers Weekly Who own the objects that connect us to history And who has the right to decide particularly when the objects are sacred or in the case of skeletal remains human As senior curator of anthropology at the Denver Museum of Nature Science Chip Colwell has navigated questions like these firsthand In Plundered Skulls and Stolen Spirits he examines how to weigh the religious freedom of Native Americans against the academic freedom of scientists and whether the emptying of museum shelves elevates human rights or destroys a common heritage Today hundreds of tribes use the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act to recover their looted heritage from museums across the country Colwell shares a personal account of this process following the trail of four objects as they were created collected and ultimately returned to their sources a sculpture that is a living god the scalp of a massacre victim a ceremonial blanket and a skeleton from a tribe considered by some to be extinct These stories reveal a dramatic process that involves not merely obeying the law but negotiating the blurry lines between identity and morality spirituality and politics Repatriation Colwell argues is a difficult but vitally important way for museums and tribes to heal the wounds of the past while creating a respectful approach to caring for these rich artifacts of history

Native North American Art Janet Catherine Berlo, Ruth Bliss Phillips, 2015 This lively introductory survey of indigenous North American arts from ancient times to the present explores both the shared themes and imagery found across the continent and the distinctive traditions of each region Focusing on the richness of artwork created in the US and Canada Native North American Art Second Edition discusses 3 000 years of architecture wood and rock carvings basketry dance masks clothing and more The expanded text discusses twentieth and twenty first century arts in all media including works by James Luna Kent Monkman Nadia Myre Jaune Quick to See Smith Will Wilson and many more Authors Berlo and Phillips incorporate new research and scholarship examining such issues as art and ethics gender representation and the colonial encounter By bringing into one conversation the seemingly separate realms of the sacred and the secular the political and the domestic and the ceremonial and the commercial Native North American Art shows how visual arts not only maintain the integrity of spiritual and social systems within Native North American societies but have long been part of a cross cultural experience as well Tsimshian Culture Jay Miller,2000-10-01 The Tsimshians are a Northwest Coast Native people known for their dazzling works of art and rich array of social religious and oral traditions that have captured the attention of scholars for over a century Jay Miller brings together for the first time a wealth of material about the Tsimshians presenting an unforgettable picture of their cultural universe That universe is built around the metaphor of light which was brought into the world by Raven its refraction forms the chief social religious and symbolic institutions of Tsimshian culture Family heraldic crests express light in one way masks in another Miller argues convincingly that the genius of Tsimshian culture and one of the main reasons for its continuing vitality is that its people are sensitive to different and often creative ways of capturing and embodying light
