Re Imagining Comparative Education Postfoundational Theories And Applications For Critical Times:

Re-Imagining Comparative Education Peter Ninnes, Sonia Mehta, 2004-06-09 The original essays included here by up and coming scholars in the field illustrate the potential and diversity of post foundational ideas as applied to comparative education concerns

Re-Imagining Comparative Education Peter Ninnes, Sonia Mehta, 2004-06-09 This book provides clear and concise discussions of key elements of contemporary social theories and their application to the field of comparative education

Affect Theory and Comparative Education Discourse Irving Epstein, 2019-07-11 What does educational policy making and institutional practice entail in an era of globalization Global interactions challenge conventional assumptions governing the certainty of geographical boundedness simplistic notions of citizenship and identity fixed notions of time space and movement and clear distinctions between economic modes of production and consumption Irving Epstein argues that conventional educational institutions and the policies that support them tend to ignore such anxiety by affirming a belief in educational modernism to the exclusion of other possibilities What is missing in most of these analyses is an appreciation for the role of affect in determining how our encounters with these practices become significant and how our efforts to find meaning in those policies and practices lead to their acceptance or rejection This book is the first application of affect theory to comparative education themes and shows how it can help to form a more robust discussion of the policy making process and the popular reactions to it After discussing the key concepts associated with affect theory he presents a total of six case studies Three of the cases depict relationships between educational cultural and social organizations whose purposes conflict with one another but whose presence is indicative of a loss of faith in the efficacy of public schooling Three of the cases are illustrative of an even greater systematic rejection of educational institutional aim and purpose

Skill Formation Regimes in South Asia Markus Maurer, 2011 In the face of accelerated economic globalisation many of the industries in economically less developed countries have become more technology intensive Skill formation processes both inside and outside firms are therefore changing This study scrutinises such transformations by comparing from the perspective of historical institutionalism the skill formation regimes of the garment industries in Sri Lanka and Bangladesh It sheds light on the differences between the trajectories of the in firm skill formation regimes of the two countries and reveals the important part that varying paths of educational development in both countries have played in shaping these trajectories At the same time the study shows how in both countries state led skill formation regimes have been transformed not only by market forces and the growing importance of corporate business interests but also by the social demand for educational credentials
