Growing Readers Kathy Collins, 2023-10-10 Primary grade teachers face an important challenge teaching children how to read while enabling them to build good habits so they fall in love with reading Many teachers find the independent reading workshop to be the component of reading instruction that meets this challenge because it makes it possible to teach the reading skills and strategies children need and guides them toward independence intention and joy as readers In Growing Readers Kathy Collins helps teachers plan for independent reading workshops in their own classrooms She describes the structure of the independent reading workshop and other components of a balanced literacy program that work together to ensure young students grow into strong well rounded readers Kathy outlines a sequence of possible units of study for a yearlong curriculum Chapters are devoted to the individual units of study and include a sample curriculum as well as examples of mini lessons and reading conferences There are also four Getting Ready sections that suggest some behind the scenes work teachers can do to prepare for the units Topics explored in these units

include print and comprehension strategies reading in genres such as poetry and nonfiction connecting in school reading and out of school reading developing the strategies and habits of lifelong readers A series of planning sheets and management tips are presented throughout to help ensure smooth implementation We want our students to learn to read and we want them to love to read To do this we need to lay a foundation on which children build rich and purposeful reading lives that extend beyond the school day The ideas found in Growing Readers create the kind of primary classrooms where that happens

Reading Workshop 2.0 Frank Serafini, 2015 As reading teachers how do we deal with the massive shifts that digital literacy is creating We can't abandon what we know works to keep up with the latest online literacy fads Yet we need to prepare readers for a world of digital content Reading Workshop 2.0 gives us teaching that puts reading for meaning first while also balancing the need for kids to become sophisticated users of books as well as online reading resources This book writes Frank Serafini is designed to help teachers organize their reading workshops in order to take advantage of the latest technologies With his guidance you'll bring more digital reading into your teaching without sacrificing sound instructional principles or practices Reading print shares four essential processes with digital reading accessing and navigating archiving and sharing commenting and discussing and interpreting and analyzing Frank introduces important well established digitally based resources that further these processes while his lesson ideas transfer learning from classroom to real world digital reading If it doesn't help children develop as readers writes Frank Serafini it doesn't matter how shiny the new object is With Reading Workshop 2.0 you'll help students with print while also helping them use online resources and technologies as they are intended to make sense of texts more deeply effectively and efficiently Choice & Voice Stephanie Fleck, Jolene Heinemann, 2020-08-15 What we allow our students to read tells them which stories we value and which we don't Give students the power to develop reading lives that will endure beyond school walls Collaborative Reader Workshop allows for student choice in reading writing and speaking provides an authentic audience for student work strengthens academic ELA skills builds a wider school community of readers and fosters lifelong reading habits Fleck and Heinemann offer teachers a clear model to establish this interactive reader workshop model in their classrooms as well as tools to get them started Readers will have a reinvigorated excitement about independent reading and justification for its relevance in the classroom

Teaching Early Writing and Reading Together Connie Campbell Dierking, 2007 The writing reading connection means more than having your students write under the influence of literature that they have read Noted author and educator Connie Campbell Dierking shows you how to develop a literacy connected classroom including using oral storytelling to scaffold primary reading and writing She supplies more than 50 mini lessons organized by their classroom function to help you explicitly teach foundational literacy skills during writer's workshop or whole class and small group reading instruction Dierking encourages you to make the most of the writing reading connection by thinking about some basic questions when you're crafting your literacy instruction How can I connect the conversations in reading and writing workshop What can I learn about the readers in my classroom through their writing What can my students learn about reading through writing How can I teach young writers to support their readers How can I teach readers how to use a writer s supports intentionally

Instructional Models in Reading Steven A. Stahl,David A. Hayes,2013-04-03 This book started with a simple idea examine models of reading instruction that have emerged during the past 20 years These models span a wide range of instruction representing a continuum from highly structured task analytic instruction to child centered and holistic instruction Each model has its own epistemology or views on how reading and instruction are to be defined The different epistemologies indicate different principles of instruction which in turn indicate different practices in the classroom Each model is also supported by a different research base In this volume leading proponents of these different models discuss their ideas about reading instruction thereby encouraging readers to make their own comparisons and contrasts The chapter authors seem to adopt the editors eclectic approach to some greater or lesser extent incorporating aspects of other models into their instruction as they see other goals Thus models of reading instruction are complex Complicating matters further is the fact that teachers hold their own models of reading which may or may not be congruent with those discussed here Although academically developed models influence college preservice and in service instruction teachers own models of reading filter the information that they take from what they learn from these perspectives By carefully examining these variables this book makes a firm contribution toward disciplined inquiry into what it means to teach reading

Balancing Principles for Teaching Elementary Reading James V. Hoffman, Peter Afflerbach, Ann M. Duffy-Hester, Sarah J. McCarthey, James F. Baumann, 2014-04-08

This book appears at a time when the crisis rhetoric about schools teaching and learning to read is extremely high There is a rising call within the profession for a balanced perspective on reading Balancing Principles for Teaching Elementary Reading aspires to help set the agenda for improving the quality of literacy instruction in the United States by recentering the debate from What's better whole language or phonics to What can we do in reading instruction to prepare all children for the literacy demands of the next century The authors all members of the professional community of reading educators work on a daily basis with teachers in classrooms prospective teachers clinicians and tutors Their goal for this book is to represent what they have learned about effective teaching and learning as members of this community It is written with four purposes in mind to offer a principled conception of reading and learning to read that is considerate of both the personal dimensions of literacy acquisition as well as the changes that are taking place in society to summarize key findings from the research that relate specifically to effective teaching practices to describe current practices in reading instruction with specific comparisons to the principles of effective practice that are identified and to suggest an action agenda that is school based and designed to promote positive changes in the quality of instruction This text offers a perspective for teaching that provokes members of the reading education community to think about their underlying beliefs about teaching and their shared commitment to making schools more effective for the students they serve It is envisioned as a resource to be used in building a community of learners to be read with professional colleagues in a course of study in a teacher researcher book club or in some type of in service setting Readers are encouraged to debate the ideas presented to challenge the authors conceptions with their own reality to make sense within a community about what action is desirable Some specific suggestions and strategies are provided as springboards for further exploration and action
