Docufictions Gary D. Rhodes,John Parris Springer,2014-10-01 Through most of the 20th century the distinction between the fictional narrative film and the documentary was vigorously maintained The documentary tradition developed side by side with but in the shadow of the more commercially successful feature film In the latter part of the century however the two forms merged on occasion and mockumentaries fictional works in a documentary format and docudramas reality based works in a fictional format became part of the film and television landscape The 18 essays here examine the relationships between narrative fiction films and documentary filmmaking focusing on how each influenced the other and how the two were merged in such diverse films and shows as Citizen Kane M A S H This Is Spinal Tap and Destination Moon Topics include the docudrama in early cinema the industrial film as faux documentary the fear evoked in 1950s science fiction films the selling of reality in mockumentaries and reality television and documentary forms The essays provide a foundation for significant rethinking of film history and criticism offering the first significant discussion of two emerging and increasingly important genres Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here Interfacing with the Internet in Popular Cinema A. Tucker,2014-07-02 The Internet is the most terrifying and most beautifully innovative invention of the twentieth century Using film theory and close textual analysis Tucker offers an explanation of the Internet and a brief history of its portrayal on film in order to examine how it has shaped contemporary versions of self identity memory and the human body Replications J. P. Telotte,1995 A haunting fascination fuels our interest in the robot the android the cyborg the replicant Born in science fiction literature the artificial human has come into its own in films lurching to life holding a mirror to humanity's soul Beginning with a pre history of the filmic robot J P Telotte traces its development through early sci fi landmarks such as Metropolis 1926 the alien films of the 1950s including Forbidden Planet and recent explorations of the artificial human in Blade Runner Robocop and the Terminator films Replications also considers the tension between the technological wonders that science fiction depicts and the human values it champions Film makers employ the latest developments in technology to fashion ever more realistic human doubles and then use them to explore what it means to be human Telotte shows us how the sci fi genre has always addressed changing cultural attitudes toward technology the body gender roles human intelligence reality and even film itself Science Fiction and Fantasy Reference
