Reading behind the lines Natasha Alden,2015-11-01 This book takes the concept of postmemory developed in Holocaust studies and applies it for the first time to novels by contemporary British writers Focusing on war fiction Alden builds upon current scholarship on historical fiction and memory studies and extends the field by exploring how the use of historical research within fiction illuminates the ways in which we remember and recreate the past Using postmemory to unlock both the transgenerational aspects of the novels discussed and the development of historiographic metafiction Alden provides a ground breaking analysis of the nature and potential of contemporary historical fiction By examining the patterns and motivations behind authors translations of material from the historical record into fiction Alden also asks to what extent such writing is necessarily metafictional Ultimately this study offers an updated answer to the question that historical fiction has always posed what can fiction do with history that history cannot Christian Observer and Advocate... ,1817

Pneumatology and Union Peter Ross, 2019-07-11 Peter Ross examines how John Calvin might assist Pentecostals in the development of a global Pentecostal theology by examining the views of each on pneumatology and the Christian's union with Christ. He conducts a conversation between the two within the contexts of the assurance of faith, providence and guidance, and justification, each an area in which the Spirit and the union are substantially involved for both parties. He also looks closely at Spirit release, showing that this Pentecostal distinctive can sit well as an extension from Calvin's thought. Ross shows that affinities exist between Pentecostals and Calvin in these contexts. These affinities clearly identify Calvin's thought as a rich resource for Pentecostals; one they should not hesitate to mine as they develop their own global theology.
