

SEXUAL READINESS CHECKLIST

How do you know when you are ready to have sex? This is different for everyone, so there is no one right answer. To help you figure out if this is something you are ready for, check out these five things to consider when it comes to sexual readiness.

1. YOUR BODY

What are you noticing in your body? How are you feeling when you are with your potential sexual partner? Have you explored your self? What kinds of pleasurable touch do you enjoy? Do you feel comfortable talking about and sharing your body with someone else?

2. SAFETY

Safety is key to having fun! Have you researched methods of protection against STIs and pregnancy? What have you and your partner discussed as the best methods for you two?

3. EDUCATION

Education is valuable. What do you know about sex? Have you read any books or articles online? We all pick up messages and information about sex from media, friends, and school, but what reliable sources are you getting your information from? Do a fact check and see what areas you might need to do some further exploring in.

4. EXPECTATIONS

Take some time to sit down with your partner to discuss expectations you have about your first time. It's important expectations are communicated to avoid disappointment. Discuss expectations you have for the overall experience, for your partner and for yourself. Remind each other that your first time isn't going to be perfect and that there's lots of room for practice and growth.

5. NO PRESSURE

Make sure sex is something that you want to do and not something you are feeling pressured to do. Check in with yourself and your partner about why you think having a sexual relationship makes sense for you right now.

The Hidden Power of Smell Paul A. Moore,2015-08-27 The main purpose of the book is to provide insight into an area that humans often take for granted There are wonderful and exciting stories of organisms using chemical signals as a basis of a sophisticated communication system In many instances chemical signals can provide more detailed and accurate information than any other mode of communication yet this world is hidden from us because of our focus on visual and auditory signals Although we have a diversity of senses available to us humans are primarily auditory and visual animals These stimuli are sent to the more cognitive areas of our brain where they are immediately processed for information We use sounds to communicate and music to excite or soothe us Our vision provides us with communication entertainment and information about our world Even though our world is dominated by other stimulus energies we have chosen in an evolutionary sense either auditory or visual signals to carry our most important information This is not the case for most other organisms Chemical signals mediated through the sense of smell and taste are typically more important and are used more often than other sensory signals The world of communication using chemicals is an alien world for us We are unaware of how important chemical signals are to other organisms and we often overlook the influence of chemical signals in our own life Part of this na vet about chemical signals is due to our cultural focus on visual and auditory signals but a larger part of our collective ignorance is the lack of information about chemical communication in both popular and scientific writings The popular press and popular writings virtually ignore the chemical senses especially in regard to their role or influence for humans and our human culture Academic books and textbooks are no better
