Shadow Conspiracy:

New York Magazine, 1997-02-10 New York Magazine was born in 1968 after a run as an insert of the New York Herald Tribune and quickly made a place for itself as the trusted resource for readers across the country. With award winning writing and photography covering everything from politics and food to theater and fashion, the magazine's consistent mission has been to reflect back to its audience the energy and excitement of the city itself while celebrating New York as both a place and an idea.

Film and the American Presidency Jeff Menne, Christian B. Long, 2015-02-20 The contention of Film and the American Presidency is that over the twentieth century the cinema has been a silent partner in setting the parameters of what we might call the presidential imaginary. This volume surveys the partnership in its longevity, placing stress on especially iconic presidents such as Lincoln and FDR. The contributions to this collection probe the rich interactions between these high institutions of culture and politics: Hollywood and the presidency, and argue that not only did Hollywood acting become an idiom for presidential style but that Hollywood early on understood its own identity through the presidency's peculiar mix of national epic and unified protagonist. Additionally, they contend that studios often made their films to sway political outcomes; that the performance of presidential personae has been constrained by the kinds of bodies for so long: white and male, that have occupied the office such that presidential embodiment obscures the body politic and that Hollywood and the presidency may finally be nothing more than two privileged figures of media age power.

Politics in Popular Movies John S. Nelson, 2015-10-23 Popular movies can be surprisingly smart about politics, from the portentous politics of state or war to the grassroots everyday politics of family, romance, business, church, and school. Politics in Popular Movies analyses the politics in many well-known films across four popular genres: horror, war, thriller, and science fiction. The book's aims are to appreciate specific movies and their shared forms, to understand their political engagements, and to provoke some insightful conversations. The means are loosely related film takes that venture, ambitiously, playfully, and engagingly, into arguments on political styles encouraged by recent films. Politics in Popular Movies shows how conspiracy films expose oppressive systems; it explores how various thrillers prefigured American experiences of 9/11 and shaped aspects of the War on Terror; how some horror films embrace new media while others use ultra-violence to spur political action; it argues that a popular genre is emerging to examine non-linear politics of globalisation, terrorism, and more. Finally, it analyses the ways in which sci-fi movies reflect populist politics from the Occupy and Tea Party movements, rethink the political foundations of current societies, and even remake our cultural images of the future.

Deep Cover Ethan Ross, 2025-09-03 They were just oil workers until they uncovered Iran's deadliest secret. When three engineers disappear from a remote Iranian drilling site, whispers of CIA involvement ignite a diplomatic firestorm. But what they stumbled upon wasn't intelligence; it was the cornerstone of a covert nuclear fusion program funded by shadow players in Moscow and Beijing. One survives. Two don't. As global tensions mount, Jack Copeland, CIA black operations commander, is thrust into the eye of a political hurricane. What begins as a rescue mission spirals into a high stakes campaign of sabotage betrayal and precision strikes across the Middle East Behind the chaos a network of rogue generals foreign ministers and silent financiers are pushing the world to the brink From Tehran s back alleys to NATO war rooms and the decks of U S warships poised for launch the clock is ticking One strike could start a war One man might stop it Precision Consequence Reprisal This is the new face of shadow warfare

Beyond Chinatown Steven P. Erie, Harold David Brackman, 2006 Examines the history of the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California from its obscure 1920s era origins through the Colorado River Aqueduct and State Water Projects to today's daunting mission of drought management water quality environmental stewardship and post 9/11 supply security Simultaneous Searching for a Demon Steven M. Chermak, 2002 This provocative volume thoroughly examines the ways in which the media demonized militia groups following the devastating bombing of the Alfred F Murrah building in Oklahoma City Using quantitative and qualitative research methods Steven M Chermak offers a fresh perspective on how news coverage and popular entertainment transformed a largely overlooked movement into a symbol for this new threat of domestic terrorism and ignited a national panic over the militia menace Searching for a Demon describes the representation of the militia movement in the news media editorial cartoons films and television Chermak delves into such topics as the type and amount of coverage after the blast how social problems are constructed in the news the motivations and biases of authoritative or celebrity figures used as news sources and why images of militias were framed in specific ways Chermak balances his account with an in depth look at the philosophies activities and strategies of militia groups Drawing on extensive interviews he conducted at gun shows and preparedness exhibitions the author compares and contrasts media depictions of militia life and ideology with the firsthand accounts of members and leaders themselves and he assesses how media coverage affected changes in the movement In conclusion Chermak discusses the parallels between media treatment of militias in the wake of the Oklahoma City bombing and the coverage of the al Qaeda terrorist network after the September 11 2001 attacks Solidly grounded in social constructionist theory Searching for a Demon fills a significant gap in the literature on terrorism as well as on the roles of the news media and popular culture in reshaping the public consciousness after dramatic crimes
