Bioregionalism and Global Ethics Richard Evanoff, 2010-09-13 While a number of schools of environmental thought including social ecology ecofeminism ecological Marxism ecoanarchism and bioregionalism have attempted to link social issues to a concern for the environment environmental ethics as an academic discipline has tended to focus more narrowly on ethics related either to changes in personal values or behavior or to the various ways in which nature might be valued What is lacking is a framework in which individual social and environmental concerns can be looked at not in isolation from each other but rather in terms of their interrelationships In this book Evanoff aims to develop just such a philosophical framework one in which ethical questions related to interactions between self society and nature can be discussed across disciplines and from a variety of different perspectives The central problem his study investigates is the extent to which a dichotomized view of the relationship between nature and culture perpetuated in ongoing debates over anthropocentric vs ecocentric approaches to environmental ethics might be overcome through the adoption of a transactional perspective which offers a more dynamic and coevolutionary understanding of how humans interact with their natural environments Unlike anthropocentric approaches to environmental ethics which often privilege human concerns over ecological preservation and some ecocentric approaches which place more emphasis on preserving natural environments than on meeting human needs a transactional approach attempts to create more symbiotic and less conflictual modes of interaction between human cultures and natural environments which allow for the flourishing of both

America into the ideal brief book for the modern survey course at a value that can t be beat The Revolution Will Not Be Funded INCITE! Women of Color Against Violence INCITE!, 2017-03-02 A trillion dollar industry the US non profit sector is one of the world's largest economies. From art museums and university hospitals to think tanks and church charities over 15 million organizations of staggering diversity share the tax-exempt 501(c)(3) designation if little else. Many social justice organizations have joined this world, often blunting political goals to satisfy government and foundation mandates. But even as funding shrinks, many activists often find it difficult to imagine movement building outside the non-profit model.

The Revolution Will Not Be Funded gathers essays by radical activists, educators, and non-profit staff from around the globe who critically rethink the long-term consequences of what they call the non-profit industrial complex. Drawing on their own experiences, the contributors track the history of non-profits and provide strategies to transform and work outside them. Urgent and visionary, The Revolution Will Not Be Funded presents a biting critique of the quietly devastating role the non-profit industrial complex plays in managing dissent.

Economic Globalisation as Religious War Michael McKinley, 2007-06-28. Using a critical theory approach to analyze the globalization of the world economy, this provocative and topical new book presents economic globalization not as a recent development but rather as a familiar process that has occurred throughout history. Michael McKinley argues that it is ultimately a self-serving, arbitrary, and destructive imperial project that should be viewed as a religious war.

Needless Hunger Betsy Hartmann, James K. Boyce, 1979. Why is a country with some of the world's most fertile land also the home of so many hungry people? Betsy Hartmann and James Boyce, both Bengali-speaking anthropologists, spent two years in Bangladesh investigating the paradox of hunger in a basketcase country that actually produces enough grain for its people. Needless Hunger follows the history and structure of Bangladesh society and also draws us into the daily lives of the people of Katni, the village where the authors lived. There is no natural barrier to filling the basic human needs of Bangladesh's people, they conclude. But there is the man-made barrier of a social order benefiting the few at the expense of the many. They found that the foreign aid pouring into the country actually entrenches the very elite who keep the majority powerless and hungry. Needless Hunger is also a book of hope, describing the strength and potential of the Bangladesh people and their desire for a society where food-producing resources are controlled by the majority.

Book jacket: Shaking the Gates of Hell Sharon Delgado, 2020-01-07. Shaking the Gates of Hell: Faith, Led Resistance to Corporate Globalization breaks new ground by describing the global economy and its effects from the perspective of an integrated theology of the earth as primary revelation and the institutional powers of this world. It reaches the conclusion that hope lies in nonviolent resistance and ecological and social responsibility based on God's action in Jesus and in the triumph of God over the powers. This book describes today's interrelated social, economic, and ecological crises and makes the case that we face a living hell on earth if we do not address them It provides an overview of the global economic system and offers a comprehensive theological analysis of the network of primary institutions that make up what Walter Wink calls the Domination System It points readers in the direction of hope based on following the way of Jesus who lived in nonviolent resistance to the powers of his day This new revised edition continues the powerful story of the original extending the analysis of the global economy from the 2008 collapse and recession to its alleged recovery It addresses the Obama administration's policies on economics trade and the environment and provides further reflections on American foreign and military policy in this so called New American Century
