The Letters of Robert Duncan and Denise Levertov Robert Edward Duncan, Robert J. Bertholf, Albert Gelpi, 2003 This volume presents the complete correspondence between two of the most important and influential American poets of the postwar period The almost 500 letters range widely over the poetry scene and the issues that made the period so lively and productive But what gives the exchange its special personal and literary resonance is the sense of spiritual affinity and shared conviction about the power of the visionary imagination Duncan and Levertov explore these matters in rich detail until under the stress of dealing with the Vietnam War in poetry they discover deep seated differences in the religious and ethical convictions underlying their politics and poetic stance The issues that drew them together and those that drove them apart create a powerful personal drama with far reaching historical and cultural significance The editors have provided a critical Introduction full notes a chronology and a glossary of names

D. H. Lawrence's Non-Fiction David Ellis, Howard Mills, 1988-06-09 This is the first book devoted entirely to Lawrence s nonfictional writings It focuses on a selection of representative texts each of which is placed in an appropriate literary or historical context These include the Study of Thomas Hardy the two books about the Unconscious the travel writing primarily Twilight in Italy and Sea and Sardinia the largely autobiographical Introduction to Memoirs of the Foreign Legion by M M and the late thoughts in verse called Pansies David Ellis and Howard Mills challenge the automatic relegation to secondary status suffered by these works in the past and suggest a radical reassessment of Lawrence s literary profile of how his writings relate to one another and of where his greatest power and originality lie

Reading, writing and the influence of Harold Bloom Alan Rawes, Jonathon Shears, 2024-07-30 Reading writing and the influence of Harold Bloom takes the work of the world s best known living literary critic and discovers what it is like to read with against and beyond his ideas The editors Alan Rawes and Jonathon Shears introduce the collection by assessing the impact of Bloom s brand of agonistic criticism on literary critics and its ongoing relevance to a discipline attempting to redefine and settle on its collective goals. Firmly grounded in though not confined to Bloom's first specialism of Romantic Studies, the volume contains essays that examine Bloom's debts to high Romanticism, his quarrels with feminism, his resistance to historicism, the tensions with the Yale School, and his recent work on Shakespeare and genius. Crucially, chapters are also devoted to putting Bloom's anxiety-themed ratios into practice on the poetry of Wordsworth, Shelley, Keats, and D. H. Lawrence, amongst others. The Harold Bloom that emerges from this collection is by turns divisive and unifying, marginalised and central, radical and conservative.
