Building Time David Leatherbarrow, 2020-11-26 While most books on architecture concentrate on spatial themes this book explores architecture's temporal dimensions Through a series of close readings of buildings both contemporary and classic it demonstrates the centrality of time in modern architecture and shows why an understanding of time is critical to understanding good architecture All buildings exist in time Even if designed for permanence they change slowly but inevitably They change use they accrue history and meaning they decay all of these processes are inscribed in time So too is the path traced by the sun through a building and the movements of the human body from room to room Time this book argues is the framework for our spatial experience of architecture and a key dimension of a building's structure and significance Building Time presents twelve close readings of buildings and artworks which explore this idea Examining works by distinctive modern architects from Eileen Gray to Ivar Siza and Wang Shu it takes the reader in some cases literally step by step through a built work and provides insightful reflections on the importance of making space for time in architectural design This is a book for both theorists and for architectural designers Through it theorists will find a way to rethink the fundamental premises and aims of design work while designers will rediscover the order and ideas that shape the world around them its buildings interiors and landscapes Edlis/Neeson Collection Art Institute of Chicago, James

The Dynamics of Delight Peter F. Smith, 2003-08-29 Rounding off decades of exploration into the various ways in which buildings and urban sequences make an impact on the mind The Dynamics of Delight emphasizes the qualitative aspects of form and space providing designers with an analytical framework in which to evaluate projects on an aesthetic level In laying the foundations for an appreciation of the aesthetic component in architecture Smith considers the mechanisms which are involved in the aesthetic response and goes on to consider how human perception may be influenced by natural phenomena and draws on chaos theory and biomathematics to illustrate this original argument Aernout Mik

Aernout Mik, Laurence Kardish, Michael T. Taussig, 2009 Edited by Laurence Kardish Text by Laurence Kardish Kelly Sidley Michael T Taussig Thinking the Sculpture Garden Penny Florence, 2020-02-20 This innovative book poses two deceptively simple questions what is a sculpture garden and what happens when you give equal weight to the main elements of landscape planting and artwork Its wide ranging frame of reference including the USA Europe and Japan is brought into focus through Tremenheere Sculpture Garden Cornwall with which the book begins and ends Effectively less than 15 years old and largely the work of one man Tremenheere affords an opportunity to examine as work in progress the creation of a new kind of sculpture garden Including a historical overview the book traverses multiple ways of seeing and experiencing sculpture gardens culminating in an exploration of their relevance as cultural ecology in the context of globalisation urbanisation and climate change The thinking here is non dualist and broadly aligned with New Materialisms and Material Feminisms to explore our place as humans in the non human world on which we depend Eminent contributors including John Dixon Hunt George Descombes Bernard Lassus and David Leatherbarrow approach these issues through practices and theories of landscape architecture garden and art making history and writing and philosophy Richly illustrated with over 100 images including a colour plate section the book will primarily appeal to those engaged in professional or academic research along with sculpture garden visitors who will find new and surprising ways of experiencing plants and art in natural and urban settings
