Scalia, 2025-07-08 A discussion of 13 works of literary fiction in the context of their relevance to conservative beliefs Great novels are a remarkable confluence of complex characters powerful storytelling and beautiful language They ask important questions and explore major ideas that can reflect a culture and shape it Yet if you talk to right of center readers about literary fiction that considers ideas of particular interest to conservatives they tend to mention the same handful of books They neglect greatness from across the centuries hardly a conservative thing to do Christopher J. Scalia's 13 Novels Conservatives Will Love but Probably Haven't Read helps anyone interested in conservatism both restock their fiction shelves and better understand a great intellectual tradition A former English professor and a widely published critic and opinion writer Scalia discusses outstanding works of fiction by anglophone writers from Samuel Johnson to Zora Neale Hurston Nathaniel Hawthorne to P. D. James Willa Cather to Walter Scott These novels explore topics like national identity tradition religion human nature and many more without descending into simplistic propaganda Scalia connects the themes of great works spanning four centuries to the insights of such thinkers as Edmund Burke William F. Buckley Roger Scruton Michael Oakeshott Gertrude Himmelfarb and Russell Kirk Engaging insightful and funny 13 Novels Conservatives Will Love but Probably Haven't Read introduces readers to great literature and teaches them about principles central to conservatism Love, Sex, Death and Words Jon Sutherland, Stephen Fender, 2011-06-01 Love sex death boredom ecstasy existential angst political upheaval the history of literature offers a rich and varied exploration of the human condition across the centuries In this absorbing companion to literature's rich past arranged by days of the year acclaimed critics and friends Stephen Fender and John Sutherland turn up the most inspiring enlightening surprising or curious artefacts that literature has to offer Find out why 16 June 1904 mattered so much to Joyce which great literary love affair was brought to a tragic end on 11 February 1963 and why Roy Campbell punched Stephen Spender on the nose on 14 April 1949 in this sumptuous voyage through the highs and lows of literature's bejewelled past Love's Knowledge Martha C. Nussbaum, 1992-04-02 This volume brings together Nussbaum's published papers on the relationship between literature and philosophy especially moral philosophy The papers many of them previously inaccessible to non specialist readers deal with such fundamental issues as the relationship between style and content in the exploration of ethical issues the nature of ethical attention and ethical knowledge and their relationship to written forms and styles and the role of the emotions in deliberation and self knowledge Nussbaum investigates and defends a conception of ethical understanding which involves emotional as well as intellectual activity and which gives a certain type of priority to the perception of particular people and situations rather than to abstract rules She argues that this ethical conception cannot be completely and appropriately stated without turning to forms of writing usually considered literary rather than philosophical. It is consequently necessary to broaden our conception of moral philosophy in order to include these forms. Featuring two new essays and revised versions of several previously published essays, this collection attempts to articulate the relationship within such a broader ethical inquiry between literary and more abstractly theoretical elements.

Love and Narrative Form in Toni Morrison's Later Novels Jean Wyatt, 2017-03

In Love and Narrative Form in Toni Morrison's Later Novels, Jean Wyatt explores the interaction among ideas of love, narrative innovation, and reader response in Toni Morrison's seven later novels. Love comes in a new and surprising shape in each of the later novels; for example, Love presents it as the deep friendship between little girls in Home; it acts as a disruptive force producing deep changes in subjectivity and in Jazz it becomes something one innovates and recreates each moment like jazz itself. Each novel's unconventional idea of love requires a new experimental narrative form. Wyatt analyzes the stylistic and structural innovations of each novel, showing how disturbances in narrative chronology, surprise endings, and gaps mirror the dislocated temporality and distorted emotional responses of the novel's troubled characters and demand that the reader situate the present-day problems of the characters in relation to a traumatic African American past. The narrative surprises and gaps require the reader to become an active participant in making meaning. And the texts' complex narrative strategies draw out the reader's convictions about love, about gender, about race, and then prompt the reader to reexamine them so that reading becomes an active ethical dialogue between text and reader. Wyatt uses psychoanalytic concepts to analyze Morrison's narrative structures and how they work on readers. Love and Narrative Form devotes a chapter to each of Morrison's later novels: Beloved, Jazz, Paradise, Love, A Mercy, Home, and God Help the Child.
