Japanese Women: Emerging from Subservience, 1868-1945, 2021-10-01 For the first time many of the world's leading scholars in the field of Japanese women's history met in Edinburgh in 2003 and presented papers addressing the themes of Pioneering Women in Japan and General Issues in Japanese Women's History This volume containing most of the papers which have been specially edited and revised for publication together with an in depth contextual Introduction by Dr Hiroko Tomida and Dr Gordon Daniels is the outcome By definition therefore the volume contains some of the most recent findings in this field in Japan Australia the United States and the UK and introduces new approaches to studying Japanese women's history In addition it contains a special contribution on Ichikawa Fusae by Professor Barbara Molony Victorian Women Travellers in Meiji Japan Lorraine Sterry, 2009-01-29 This volume complements other published works about travel by nineteenth century women writers by locating and creating space for Japan which is missing within recent critical discourses on travel writing It examines the narratives of women writers who travelled to Japan from the mid 1850s onwards when Japan was first opened to the West and became a highly desirable travel destination for decades thereafter Many women travelled in this period and although most left no record of their journeys enough did to form a discrete body of literature spanning more than fifty years from the end of the feudal Tokugawa era to the rise of Meiji Japan as a world power Their narratives about Japan occupy a culturally significant place not only in the genre of Victorian female travel writing but in Victorian travel writing per se The writers who are the subject of this book are divided into two groups those who were travellers by intent namely Anna D A Alice Frere Annie Brassey Isabella Bird and Marie Stopes and those who travelled by default as the wives of diplomats namely Mrs Pemberton Hodgson Mrs Hugh Fraser and Baroness Albert d Anethan

Downer, 2012-06-07 In the brave new Japan of the 1870s, Taka and Nobu meet as children and fall in love, but their relationship will test the limits of society. Unified after a bitter civil war, Japan is rapidly turning into a modern country with rickshaws, railways, and schools for girls. Commoners can marry their children into any class, and the old hatred between north and south is over, or so it seems. Taka is from the powerful southern Satsuma clan, which now dominates the country, and her father General Kitaoka is a leader of the new government. Nobu, however, is from the northern Aizu clan, massacred by the Satsuma in the civil war. Defeated and reduced to poverty, his family has sworn revenge on the Satsuma. Taka and Nobu's love is unacceptable to both their families and must be kept secret, but what they cannot foresee is how quickly the tables will turn. Many southern samurai become disillusioned with the new regime, which has deprived them of their swords, status, and honour. Taka's father abruptly leaves Tokyo and returns to the southern island of Kyushu, where trouble is brewing. When he and his clansmen rise in rebellion, the government sends its newly created army to put them down. Nobu and his brothers have joined this army, and his brothers now see their chance of revenge on the Satsuma. But Nobu will have to fight and maybe kill Taka's father and brother, while Taka now has to make a terrible choice between her family and the man she loves.

Sessue Hayakawa Daisuke Miyao, 2007-03-28 Critical biography of Sessue Hayakawa, a Japanese actor who became a popular silent film star in the U.S. that looks at how Hollywood treated issues of race and nationality in the early twentieth century.

Aesthetic Life Miya Elise Mizuta Lippit, 2020-10-26 This study of modern Japan engages the fields of art history, literature, and cultural studies, seeking to understand how the beautiful woman bijin emerged as a symbol of Japanese culture during the Meiji period 1868-1912. With origins in the formative period of modern Japanese art and aesthetics, the figure of the bijin appeared across a broad range of visual and textual media: photographs, illustrations, prints, and literary works, as well as fictional, critical, and journalistic writing. It eventually constituted a genre of painting called bijinga, paintings of beauties. Aesthetic Life examines the contributions of writers, artists, scholars, critics, journalists, and politicians to the discussion of the bijin and to the production of a national discourse on standards of Japanese beauty and art. As Japan worked to establish its place in the world, it actively presented itself as an artistic nation based on these ideals of feminine beauty. The book explores this exemplary figure for modern Japanese aesthetics and analyzes how the deceptively ordinary image of the beautiful Japanese woman, an iconic image that persists to this day, was cultivated as a national treasure synonymous with Japanese culture.

Spectacles of Authenticity Hsuan Tsien, 2011. In the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, America and Japan were in the process of establishing their positions as powers in a world dominated by Western Europe. The two nations, with unconnected histories and cultures, found themselves in momentary sympathy as they embarked on their first forays into military imperialism, expanded their trade, and constructed civic institutions intended to compete with those of Europe. It was during this period that mass entertainments developed and began circulating across national borders, and drawing on tourist practices helped create a universal visual culture which coexisted with local particularities. This dissertation undertakes a study of Japanese and American shared visual culture and modern entertainments with the goal of nuancing current scholarship on East-West exchanges and expanding the definition of modernity. Three modern phenomena—panoramas, World's Fairs, and film—form the core of my three main chapters and describe a process of appropriation, assimilation, and collaboration through their movements from Europe across America to Japan and ending with a return to America. Many scholars have observed that Americans viewed Japan as a confusing cultural other with a baffling skill at appearing modern. This dissertation begins with the premise that Japan was modern and re-examines American and Japanese cultural exchanges from this position with the aim of shifting the paradigms of modernity and modern visuality.

The Affinity of the Eye Ignacio López-Calvo, 2013-06-06. López-Calvo uses contemporary Nikkei texts such as fiction, testimonies, and poetry to construct an account of the cultural formation of Japanese migrant communities and, in so doing, challenges fixed notions of Japanese/Peruvian identity.

La música de la vida Denis Noble, 2008-09-01. ¿Qué es la vida? Tal era la pregunta que se planteaba Erwin Schrödinger en su célebre conferencia del Trinity College de Dublín en 1943. Hoy día, a pesar de los inmensos avances realizados en los últimos tiempos, aún estamos lejos de dar una respuesta satisfactoria. El enfoque reduccionista de la biología molecular ha demostrado ser inmensamente poderoso. Pero el ADN no es la vida. Se necesita todo un ejército de proteínas para desentrañar, editar y ejecutar la información que contiene. Sin ellas, no es más que una base de datos inerte llena de errores y repeticiones. Para comprender la naturaleza de la vida, tenemos que evitar obsesionarnos únicamente con los genes; debemos dirigir nuestra mirada a la interacción de procesos que tienen lugar en distintos niveles, de lo molecular a órganos y sistemas completos. Tal es el ámbito de la biología de sistemas, un campo que ha experimentado un fuerte crecimiento en la pasada década. Noble, uno de sus fundadores, sostiene que, lejos de ser una visión holística vaga, no satisfactoria e incluso ligeramente mística, la moderna biología de sistemas puede ser tan matemáticamente rigurosa y exacta como el enfoque reduccionista con el que la biología molecular ha permitido acumular una ingente cantidad de conocimiento en los últimos cincuenta años Y puede que este sea el punto de vista que necesitamos adoptar para conseguir una comprensión más profunda de la naturaleza de la vida

The Music of Life Denis Noble, 2008-02-14 What is Life
Decades of research have resulted in the full mapping of the human genome three billion pairs of code whose functions are only now being understood The gene's eye view of life advocated by evolutionary biology sees living bodies as mere vehicles for the replication of the genetic codes But for a physiologist working with the living organism the view is a very different one Denis Noble is a world renowned physiologist and sets out an alternative view to the question one that becomes deeply significant in terms of the living breathing organism The genome is not life itself Noble argues that far from genes building organisms they should be seen as prisoners of the organism The view of life presented in this little modern post genome project reflection on the nature of life is that of the systems biologist to understand what life is we must view it at a variety of different levels all interacting with each other in a complex web It is that emergent web full of feedback between levels from the gene to the wider environment that is life It is a kind of music Including stories from Noble's own research experience his work on the heartbeat musical metaphors and elements of linguistics and Chinese culture this very personal and at times deeply lyrical book sets out the systems biology view of life

Cody, Evert Sprinchorn, 2007 The Columbia Encyclopedia of Modern Drama covers the period from 1860 to the present The distinctive feature of this encyclopedia is the emphasis it places on the cultural context of dramatic works and their authors Preface
