Cheng,2013-04-30 Lu Xun 1881 1936 arguably twentieth century China s greatest writer is commonly cast in the mold of a radical iconoclast who vehemently rejected traditional culture The contradictions and ambivalence so central to his writings however are often overlooked Challenging conventional depictions Eileen J Cheng s innovative readings capture Lu Xun s disenchantment with modernity and his transformative engagements with traditional literary conventions in his modern experimental works Lurking behind the ambiguity at the heart of his writings are larger questions on the effects of cultural exchange accommodation and transformation that Lu Xun grappled with as a writer How can a culture estranged from its vanishing traditions come to terms with its past How can a culture severed from its roots and alienated from the foreign conventions it appropriates conceptualize its own present and future Literary Remains shows how Lu Xun s own literary encounter with the modern involved a sustained engagement with the past His creative writings which imitate adapt and parody traditional literary conventions represent and mirror the trauma of cultural disintegration in content and in form His contradictory uncertain and at times bizarrely incoherent narratives refuse to conform to conventional modes of meaning making or teleological notions of history opening up imaginative possibilities for comprehending the past and present without necessarily reifying them Behind Lu Xun s refusal to mourn that is his insistence on keeping the past and the dead alive in writing lies an ethical claim to recover the redemptive meaning of loss Like a solitary wanderer keeping vigil at the site of destruction he sifts through the debris composing epitaphs to mark both the presence and absence of that which has gone before and will soon come to pass For in the rubble of what remains he recovered precious gems of illumination through which to assess critique and transform the moment of the present Literary Remains shows how Lu Xun s literary enterprise is driven by a radical hope that in spite of the destruction he witnessed and the limits of representation his writings like the texts that inspired his own might somehow capture glimmers of the past and the present and illuminate a future yet to unfold Literary Remains will appeal to a wide audience of students and scholars interested in Lu Xun modern China cultural studies and world literature

Lu Xun and World Literature Xiaolu Ma,Carlos Rojas,2025-01-07 In Lu Xun and World Literature Xiaolu Ma Carlos Rojas and other contributors examine various aspects of Lu Xun who is known as the father of modern Chinese literature

Essays in this book focus on Lu Xun's works in relation to the notions of world literature and processes of literary worlding. The contributors offer detailed analyses of Lu Xun's own literary oeuvre and of foreign works that engage with his writings. This volume also focuses on many facets of the publication and dissemination of Lu Xun's works from printing and binding to the discussions and debates that followed their release in China and abroad. This book not only makes an important contribution to the field of Lu Xun studies but also proposes a reexamination of the category of world literature. This exceptional volume sheds new and important light on the increasingly incumbent question of the relationship between the literary giant Lu Xun and world literature. Rather than dwell on how the author's work fits into some pre-existing rubric, the essays in this volume explore new territory in investigating how Lu Xun's work contributes to the way in which the character of world literature itself must be continually reconstructed and reimagined. Theodore D. Hutters, University of California, Los Angeles. This volume examines questions surrounding the relationship between Lu Xun, world literature, and the underlying processes of worlding, situating his work as a writer and a translator in a global context, both among and interacting with prominent international works and literary movements, as well as influencing writers and readers in countries well beyond China. As such, it is a milestone in our understanding of this challenging, always witty and engaging gadfly of the state. Just as Lu Xun and His Legacy, edited by Leo Ou-fan Lee, brought together much of the best in twentieth-century scholarship on Lu Xun, ours is a massive dose of good fortune to have Lu Xun and World Literature to steer us into the twenty-first. Jon Eugene von Kowallis, University of New South Wales, Sydney. author of The Lyrical Lu Xun: A Study of His Classical Style Verse.

The Heart of Time Sabina Knight, 2020-03-23. By examining how narrative strategies reinforce or contest deterministic paradigms, this work describes modern Chinese fiction's unique contribution to ethical and literary debates over the possibility for meaningful moral action. How does Chinese fiction express the desire for freedom as well as fears of attendant responsibilities and abuses? How does it depict struggles for and against freedom? How do the texts allow for or deny the possibility of freedom and agency? By analyzing discourses of agency and fatalism and the ethical import of narrative structures, the author explores how representations of determinism and moral responsibility changed over the twentieth century. She links these changes to representations of time and to enduring commitments to human heartedness and social justice. Although Chinese fiction may contain some of the most disconsolate pages in the twentieth century's long literature of disenchantment, it also bespeaks Knight's argument: a passion for freedom and moral responsibility. Responding to ongoing conflicts between the claims of modernity and the resources of past traditions, these stories and novels are often dominated by challenges to human agency. Yet read with sensitivity to traditional Chinese conceptions of moral experience, their testimony to both the promises of freedom and the failure of such promises opens new perspectives on moral agency.

Modern Selfhood in Translation Limin Chi, 2018-09-03. This book examines the development of Chinese translation practice in relation to the rise of ideas of modern selfhood in China from the 1890s to the 1920s. The key translations produced by late Qing and early Republican Chinese intellectuals over the three decades in question reflect a preoccupation with new personality ideals informed by foreign models and the healthy development of modern individuality in the face of crises compounded by feelings of cultural inadequacy. The book clarifies how these translated works supplied the meanings for new terms and concepts that signify modern human experience and sheds light on the ways in which they taught readers to internalize the idea of the modern as personal experience. Through their selection of source texts and their adoption of different translation strategies, the translators chosen as case studies championed a progressive view of the world, one that was open-minded and humanistic. The late Qing construction of modern Chinese identity instigated under the imperative of national salvation in the aftermath of the First Sino-Japanese War wielded a far-reaching influence on the New Culture discourse. This book argues that the New Culture translations, being largely explorations of modern self-consciousness, helped to produce an egalitarian cosmopolitan view of modern being. This was a view favoured by the majority of mainland intellectuals in the post-Maoist 1980s and which has since become an important topic in mainland scholarship.

Unreliable Narration and Trustworthiness Vera Nünning, 2015-02-24. Though the phenomenon known as unreliable narration or narrative unreliability has received a lot of attention during the last two decades, narratological research has mainly focused on its manifestations in narrative fiction, particularly in homodiegetic or first-person narration. Except for film, forms and functions of unreliable narration in other genres, media, and disciplines have so far been relatively neglected. The present volume redresses the balance by directing scholarly attention to disciplines and domains that narratology has so far largely ignored. It aims at initiating an interdisciplinary approach to and debate on narrative unreliability, exploring unreliable narration in a broad range of literary genres, other media, and non-fictional text types, contexts, and disciplines beyond literary studies. Crossing the boundaries between genres, media, and disciplines, the volume acknowledges that the question of whether or not to believe or trust a narrator transcends the field of literature. The issues of unreliability and untrustworthiness play a crucial role in many areas of human life as well as a wide spectrum of academic fields ranging from law to history and from psychology to the study of culture.

Machado De Assis's Philosopher or Dog? Suriani da Silva, 2017-07-05. The great Brazilian writer Joaquim Maria Machado de Assis (1839-1908) published five of his nine novels as feuilletons in daily newspapers or fortnightly women's magazines. How were the structure and themes of those novels entangled with this serial publication form? In da Silva's important new study, textual scholarship, critical theory, and the history of the book are combined in order to trace this relationship. The most important case study is an extended consideration of Philosopher or Dog (1891), the novel after which he abandoned the feuilleton. Through a comparison of the serial and book versions of Philosopher or Dog and a thorough study of the periodical in which it appeared, the international women's magazine The Season, da Silva analyses the changes which the genre novel was undergoing at the end of the nineteenth century: the decline of the serial and the standardisation of female press.
