The Open Boundary of History and Fiction Suzanne Gearhart, 2019-02-19 Challenging the view that a critical sense of history is missing from the Enlightenment Suzanne Gearhart links the works of Voltaire Montesquieu Diderot and Rousseau with the inquiry into the boundary between literature and history in contemporary critical discourse She considers the theories of Levi Strauss Foucault Althusser Genette White de Man and Derrida in order to develop a critical approach to fiction and history and to reveal that investigations into the foundations of historical knowledge and specifically into what distinguishes history from fiction were central to the Enlightenment This book questions many assumptions basic to contemporary criticism by establishing a dialogue between major theorists and Enlightenment figures It challenges certitudes of fiction and literature by examining the historicity of language form and literature itself redefining history to show its crucial relevance to literary studies and opening historiography to the insights of literary theory Suzanne Gearhart is Associate Professor of Literature at the University of California San Diego Originally published in 1984 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

A History of English Laughter, 2021-11-01 Is there a history of laughter Or isn't laughter an anthropological constant rather and thus beyond history a human feature that has defined humanity as homo ridens from cave man and cave woman to us The contributors to this collection of essays believe that laughter does have a history and try to identify continuities and turning points of this history by studying a series of English texts both canonical and non-canonical from Anglosaxon to contemporary As this is not another book on the history of the comic or of comedy it does not restrict itself to comic genres some of the essays actually go out of their way to discover laughter at the margins of texts where one would not have expected it all in Beowulf or Paradise Lost or the Gothic Novel Laughter at the margins of texts which often coincides with laughter from the margins of society and its orthodoxies is one of the special concerns of this book This goes together with an interest in impure forms of laughter in laughter that is not the serene and intellectually or emotionally distanced response to a comic stimulus which is at the heart of many philosophical theories of the comic but emotionally disturbed and troubled aggressive and transgressive satanic and sardonic laughter We do not ask then what is comic but who laughs at and with whom where when why and how
