

The background of the book cover is a detailed illustration of a herd of pack animals, likely mules or horses, crossing a snowy mountain pass. The animals are depicted in various shades of brown and grey, with some carrying packs. They are moving from the left side of the frame towards the right, ascending a steep, snow-covered slope. The sky is a pale blue, and the overall scene conveys a sense of a challenging journey in a rugged, mountainous landscape. The title and author's name are overlaid on the right side of the illustration.

Maggie's Way The Story Of A Defiant Pioneer Woman:

Maggie's Way Lucinda Stein, 2005 Maggie O Malley is accustomed to living life on her own terms Born of a proud Irish heritage Maggie grew up with stories of her mother's struggles and hardships in traveling from her native Ireland to this brave new world across the Atlantic Her mother's determination and strength gave her the courage to live her life free from many of the societal restraints of her day Although her mother was eventually forced to work as a servant in order to ensure their survival Maggie was not content to live under the roofs of the rich men and women who delegated housekeeping jobs out to members of poor immigrant families Instead she longed for the freedom and equality to be found out West where the rules of polite society took a backseat to the practical demands for survival in the untamed wilderness Intoxicated by the possibilities of a change in lifestyle Maggie convinces her mother to join her in an arduous journey across the Colorado territory to the small mining town of Ouray Maggie helps her mother set up a restaurant but before long she sets her sights on a more ambitious line of work that of a mule skinner Maggie soon succeeds in securing herself a position in this unconventional line of work and quickly grows to cherish her adventurous treks up into the mountains Then she meets Matthew a rugged preacher who finds a place in her heart and causes her to reconsider issues of marriage and childrearing Maggie must decide whether or not she can shoulder the responsibility of raising a family without compromising the life that she has already striven so hard to achieve But will her desire for independence and adventure cause her to miss out on true love

Three Threads Woven Lucinda Stein, 2009-09 Wenona Black Elk is woven from three threads Dakota Sioux Navajo and white Her father trades his soul to keep the secret that he has created a child with a white woman After asking his parents to raise Wenona Joseph Black Elk is determined to never have anything to do with the baby again As a child a stable family life eludes Wenona She is shuffled from her Dakota Sioux grandparents windswept farm in South Dakota to her great aunt's ranch on the Navajo desert Her unstable father drops into her life at rare moments leaving as quickly as he arrives But Wenona faces more challenges than trying to figure out where she belongs she is taunted by other children and called half blood Her childhood is not easy and despite all she endures Wenona becomes a young woman with hopes and dreams Unfortunately she finds herself in an ill fated marriage and soon after her father unleashes a devastating blow Painted against the colorful backdrop of Dakota and Navajo culture Wenona's journey carries her from prejudice to self acceptance forgiveness and the eventual realization that true family is found in the hidden depths of the heart Three Thread Woven was recently chosen as a 2010 Finalist in the WILLA literary award in the Contemporary Fiction division
