Women in British Cinema Sue Harper,2000-06-01 This book takes a broad perspective and analyses the ways in which the British film industry has dealt with women and their creativity from 1930 to the present The first part of the book deals comprehensively with different historical periods in British film culture showing how the agency of production company director distribution company or scriptwriter can bring about new patterns of female stereotyping The second part looks at the input of women workers into the film process It assesses the work of women in a variety of roles directors such as Wendy Toye and Sally Potter producers such as Betty Box scriptwriters such as Clemence Dane and Muriel Box costume designers such as Shirley Russell and Jocelyn Rickards and editors and art directors This is a polemical book which is written in a lively and often confrontational manner It uses fresh archival material and takes energetic issue with those explanatory models of film analysis which impose easy answers onto complex material Hyderabad, British India, and the World Eric Lewis

Beverley,2015-06-01 This examination of the formally autonomous state of Hyderabad in a global comparative framework challenges the idea of the dominant British Raj as the sole sovereign power in the late colonial period Beverley argues that Hyderabad's position as a subordinate yet sovereign minor state was not just a legal formality but that in exercising the right to internal self government and acting as a conduit for the regeneration of transnational Muslim intellectual and political networks Hyderabad was indicative of the fragmentation of sovereignty between multiple political entities amidst empires By exploring connections with the Muslim world beyond South Asia law and policy administration along frontiers with the colonial state and urban planning in expanding Hyderabad City Beverley presents Hyderabad as a locus for experimentation in global and regional forms of political modernity This book recasts the political geography of late imperialism and historicises Muslim political modernity in South Asia and beyond

South Asian Borderlands Farhana Ibrahim, Tanuja Kothiyal, 2022-02-03 This is an interdisciplinary volume exploring a range of historical anthropological and literary ideas and issues in South Asian Borderlands Going beyond the territorial and geo political imaginaries of contemporary borderlands in South Asia chapters in this book engage with the questions of sovereignty control policing as well as continuing affections across politically divided borderlands Modern conceptions of nationhood have created categories of legality and illegality among historically socially economically and emotionally connected residents of South Asian borderlands This volume provides unique insights into the interconnected lives and histories of these borderland spaces and communities
