Longfellow's Country:

Transatlantic Literature and Author Love in the Nineteenth Century Paul Westover, Ann Wierda Rowland, 2016-09-22 This book is about Anglo American literary heritage It argues that readers on both sides of the Atlantic shaped the contours of international English in the 1800s expressing love for books and authors in a wide range of media and social practices It highlights how in the wake of American independence the affection bestowed on authors who became international objects of celebration and commemoration was a major force in the invention of transnational English literature the popular canon defined by shared language and tradition While love as such is difficult to quantify and recover the records of such affection survive not just in print but also in other media in monuments in architecture and in the ephemera of material culture Thus this collection brings into view a wide range of nineteenth century expressions of love for literature and its creators

Environmental Evasion Lloyd Willis, 2012-01-02 How do we reconcile the abstract reverence for the natural world central to American literary history beginning with Ralph Waldo Emerson's Nature with over a century and a half of widespread environmental destruction Environmental Evasion examines the environmental implications of literary and cultural productions by writers from James Fenimore Cooper and Henry Wadsworth Longfellow to Willa Cather John Steinbeck Ernest Hemingway and Zora Neale Hurston Lloyd Willis provocatively argues that the environmentalist outlooks by Cooper and Longfellow were eclipsed by Ralph Waldo Emerson's abstract imperialist vision of nature He demonstrates how many 20th century American writers have taken the Emersonian approach participating in a silent but extremely powerful form of evasive environmental politics in the ways in which they write about the natural world Attentive to the inherent political dimensions of all texts Environmental Evasion insists on the relevance of environmental history and politics to New Americanist approaches to the literary canon 1875-1890 Charles Wells Moulton,1910 A Henry Wadsworth Longfellow Companion Robert L.
