

Words tangle us together like roots

We share, as it happens, a moon, and this vermillion sunset here is there too, and there, and there, and there!

Words are best when they are needless, when they say what has already been said by a greater power.

I gift you my word, my book, my story.
Maybe I wrote it, or somehow, I have come into possession of it - language does not clarify,
An ambiguity that lends itself to shared joys.
I like that - the conductive space between feeling and word and love is where life (I guess) is located,
The struggle to put into song and ritual what eludes all articulation.
As I write, I put my heart in a wrapped-up parcel and send it to you: the song of myself.

Indigenous and settler communities in Canada retained their cultural identities and sought autonomy from Britain Initially writing for an audience in Ireland they highlighted features of the landscape and culture that they regarded as distinctively Canadian and that were later invoked as powerful unifying symbols by Canadian nationalists Michele Holmgren shows how these Irish writers and movements are essential to understanding the tenor of early Canadian literary nationalism and political debates concerning Confederation imperial unity and western expansion Canada to Ireland convincingly demonstrates that Canadian cultural nationalism left its mark on both countries Contemporary decolonization movements in Canada and current cultural exchanges between Ireland and Indigenous peoples make this a timely and relevant study
