Elapsing into Love Christopher Rivers, 2024-12-03 To some the world seemed to be coming to an end Thousands every day were dying at the hands of mankind Countries were taking hold of every drop of oil they could get and it didn't matter how many lives they killed in order to get it On a daily basis people are being taken for granted lied to and abused by their own governments and neighbors living next door to them The socialites of the world were living darker and darker lives as the fossil fuels we used slowly killed us and the planet The ice caps of our world cried out weeping its fresh water into our oceans Our world was slowly dying because of all of us living on the planet Harvey understood human beings were the cause of most of our troubles but what could he do about it He had problems of his own His whole life seemed to be a whirlwind of events that never stopped How does someone work on themselves when the world around you is out of control After leaving Burlington College his only thought was the peace and quiet of the green mountains of Vermont Strapping on his backpack Harvey would never realize how this one trip across the Appalachian Trail would change his life forever His entire world would never be the same again

The Color of Love Elizabeth Hordge-Freeman, 2015-10-30 The Color Of Love reveals the power of racial hierarchies to infiltrate our most intimate relationships Delving far deeper than previous sociologists have into the black Brazilian experience Elizabeth Hordge Freeman examines the relationship between racialization and the emotional life of a family Based on interviews and a sixteen month ethnography of ten working class Brazilian families this provocative work sheds light on how families simultaneously resist and reproduce racial hierarchies Examining race and gender Hordge Freeman illustrates the privileges of whiteness by revealing how those with blacker features often experience material and emotional hardships From parental ties to sibling interactions to extended family and romantic relationships the chapters chart new territory by revealing the connection between proximity to whiteness and the distribution of affection within families Hordge Freeman also explores how black Brazilian families particularly mothers rely on diverse strategies that reproduce negotiate and resist racism She frames efforts to modify racial features as sometimes reflecting internalized racism and at other times as responding to material and emotional considerations Contextualizing their strategies within broader narratives of the African diaspora she examines how Salvador s inhabitants perceive the history of the slave trade itself in a city that is referred to as the blackest in Brazil She argues that racial hierarchies may orchestrate family relationships in ways that reflect and reproduce racial inequality but black Brazilian families actively negotiate these hierarchies to assert their citizenship and humanity
