ensemble may have undermined what she most treasured With exquisite psychological precision Blum traces the seemingly insignificant missteps and deceptions of family life where it is possible to cross the line between protectiveness and possession without even seeing it and uncertain whether or how we can find our way back      The Secret Psychology of How We Fall in Love Paul Dobransky, L. Making Love in the Twelfth Century, 2016-04-29 New sparkling translations of the Letters of Two Lovers the Tegernsee Letters and selections from the Regensburg Songs Nine hundred years ago in Paris a teacher and his brilliant female student fell in love and chronicled their affair in a passionate correspondence Their 116 surviving letters some whole and some fragmentary are composed in eloquent highly rhetorical Latin Since their discovery in the late twentieth century the Letters of Two Lovers have aroused much attention because of their extreme rarity They constitute the longest correspondence by far between any two persons from the entire Middle Ages and they are private rather than institutional which means that according to all we know about the transmission of medieval letters they should not have survived at all Adding to their mystery the letters are copied anonymously in a single late fifteenth century manuscript although their style and range of reference place them squarely in the early twelfth century Can this collection of correspondence be the previously lost love letters of Abelard and Heloise And even if not what does it tell us about the lived experience of love in the twelfth century Barbara Newman contends that these teacher student exchanges bear witness to a culture that linked Latin pedagogy with the practice of ennobling love and the cult of friendship during a relatively brief period when women played an active part in that world Newman presents a new translation of these extraordinary letters along with a full commentary and two extended essays that parse their literary and intellectual contexts and chart the course of the doomed affair Included too are two other sets of twelfth century love epistles the Tegernsee Letters and selections from the Regensburg Songs Taken together they constitute a stunning contribution to the study of the history of emotions by one of our most prominent medievalists      True Love that Counts George Kariuki, 2017-07-19 You say it is 1 2 3 or A B C But who engineers who as goes the rapid changes of morality You or me or is it the vice me or you In fact the WORLD has changed Our lifestyle has changed too However would you caution on your relationship trends or would you walk on a travelled road well sure of the marked fates on our awful daily calendars at the same road Today the best model in our relationship and sexuality is the Bible as the major question is

The intense experiences that characterize new love are impossible to replicate, leading to wistful reflection and even a repeated pursuit of such ecstatic beginnings. Aaron Ben-Ze'ev takes these experiences seriously, but he's also here to remind us of the benefits of profound love: an emotion that can only develop with time. In The Arc of Love, he provides an in-depth philosophical account of the experiences that arise in early, intense love: sexual passion, novelty, change, as well as the benefits of cultivating long-term, profound love: stability, development, calmness. Ben-Ze'ev analyzes the core of emotions many experience in early love and the challenges they encounter and he offers pointers for weathering these challenges Deploying the rigorous analysis of a philosopher but writing clearly and in an often humorous style with an eye to lived experience he takes on topics like compromise commitment polyamory choosing a partner online dating and when to say I love you Ultimately Ben Ze ev assures us while love is indeed best when fresh if we tend to it carefully it can become more delicious and nourishing even as time marches on
