Geomorphic Approaches to Integrated Floodplain Management of Lowland Fluvial Systems in North America and Europe Paul F. Hudson,Hans Middelkoop,2015-04-29 This volume provides a comprehensive perspective on geomorphic approaches to management of lowland alluvial rivers in North America and Europe Many lowland rivers have been heavily managed for flood control and navigation for decades or centuries resulting in engineered channels and embanked floodplains with substantially altered sediment loads and geomorphic processes Over the past decade floodplain management of many lowland rivers has taken on new importance because of concerns about the potential for global environmental change to alter floodplain processes necessitating revised management strategies that minimize flood risk while enhancing environmental attributes of floodplains influenced by local embankments and upstream dams Recognition of the failure of old perspectives on river management and the need to enhance environmental sustainability has stimulated a new approach to river management The manner that river restoration and integrated management are implemented however requires a case study approach that takes into account the impact of historic human impacts to the system especially engineering The river basins examined in this volume provide a representative coverage of the drainage of North America and Europe taking into account a range of climatic and physiographic provinces They include the 1 Sacramento California USA 2 San Joaquin California 3 Missouri
