His papers on the evolution of the Hymenoptera, including the origin of the order, are still cited. He also published on the evolution of the Coleoptera, including the origin of the order. He was a member of the American Museum of Natural History, the American Society of Naturalists, and the Entomological Society of America. He was also a member of the Society for the Study of Evolution and the Society for the History of Biology. He was a very active and productive scientist, and his work has been highly influential in the field of insect systematics and evolution.
