book's unique perspective and complete review of current research Composers in the Classroom James Michael Floyd, 2011-02-07 Composers in the Classroom is a bio-bibliographical dictionary chronicling the careers and work of over 120 composers associated with conservatories, colleges, and universities in the United States and Puerto Rico. Scholars and students of music seeking critical information about composers who have taken on the mantle of instruction will find a wealth of detail on their subjects. Painstakingly obtained through direct correspondence with the composers themselves, Floyd includes within each entry a short biography of the composer's life and education, lists of previous positions, most prominent commissions, awards, and honors, and notable performers of the subject's work. Each entry also contains a discography of the recordings and a bibliography of writings by the composer. Researchers will find especially useful the organization of each subject's compositions by a variety of types. These include vocal, choral, assembly, dramatic, keyboard, solo instrument, handbells, chamber music, jazz ensemble, band, and wind ensemble, with solo instruments, orchestra, orchestra with solo instruments, film, television, commercial, electro-acoustic, and multimedia arrangements, transcriptions, and editions, and reconstructions. Music scholars will find under each work not only the title and date of composition but also the date of revision, commission, and dedication information, as well as other pertinent details ranging from the names of collaborators to alternate titles under which works may circulate. Composers in the Classroom is an indispensable tool to scholars of modern music seeking to research the current state of musical composition and the compositional trends of the 21st century.

The Computer as Medium Berit Holmqvist, 1993 Many industrial training applications, educational applications, and of course information applications such as databases and hypermedia are all attempts to communicate, and yet we really don't know much about the computer as a communicative medium. Bringing together a collection of essays presenting such diverse theoretical approaches as general semiotics, linguistics, communication theory, literary and art criticism, sociology, and history, the editors set out to establish and elaborate the role of computer systems as a sign technology. The volume is divided into three main parts, each focused on a different field of semiotic inquiry. Computer Based Signs discusses the special nature of signs produced by means of computers. The Rhetoric of Interactive Media deals with codes of aesthetics and composition for the new elastic medium of communication, interactive fiction, and hypertext. Computers in Context analyzes computer technology in the larger cultural, historical, and organizational contexts. Scholars in computer science, cognitive science, organization theory, information and media science, semiotics, communication, and linguistics will find this book invaluable, and as current excitement about hypermedia and electronic books continues to grow, a broader audience, including computer artists and literary critics, will also find it a useful resource.
