R. Davis, 2010-01-04 Join author Michael W R Davis as he retraces the history of what went on behind the scenes of testing automotive tracks in Detroit Michigan The catastrophic failure of a new but unproven copper cooled Chevrolet in 1923 led the General Motors Corporation to buy back the 100 cars it had sold to the public and recall another 400 in company and dealer hands As a result in 1924 General Motors started building the industry's first scientific proving ground to test new vehicle designs before they were released for production and sale. Before this, all automakers tested new cars haphazardly on public roads and within limited engineering laboratories. Better known by the public as test tracks, the proving grounds became a source of curiosity for decades about the secrets they might hold.
