Madness and Literature Lasse R. Gammelgaard, 2025-09-09 Mental illness has been a favourite topic for authors throughout the history of literature and conversely psychologists and psychiatrists like Sigmund Freud and Karl Jaspers have been interested in and influenced by literature Pioneers within philosophy psychiatry and literature share the endeavour to explore and explain the human mind and behaviour including what a society deems as being outside perceived normality This volume engages with literature's multifarious ways of probing minds and bodies in a state of ill mental health To encompass this diversity the theoretical approach is eclectic and transdisciplinary The cases and the theory are in dialogue with a clinical approach addressing issues and diagnoses such as trauma psychosis bipolar disorder eating disorders self harm hoarding disorder PTSD and Digital Sexual Assault The volume has three parts Chapters in Part I address literary representations of madness with a historical awareness outlining the socio political potentials of madness literature Part II investigates how representations of mental illness can provide a different way of understanding what it is like to experience alternative states of mind as well as how theoretical concepts from studies in literature can supplement the language of psychopathology The chapters in Part III explore ways to apply literary cases in clinical practice Throughout the book the contributors explore and explain how the language and discourses of literature stylistically and theoretically can teach us something new about what it means to be in ill mental health

Madness And Modernism Louis Sass, 1992-10-27 A stunning revelation of the eerie likeness between schizophrenic insanity and the sensibility of modern art literature and thought Madness and Modernism presents a vivid and highly original portrait of the world of the madman along with a provocative commentary on modernist and postmodernist culture Sass a clinical psychologist explores the bizarre experiences of schizophrenia and related conditions through a comparison with the works of various artists and writers including Franz Kafka Paul Valery Samuel Beckett Alain Robbe Grillet Giorgio de Chirico and Marcel Duchamp and by considering the ideas of philosophers such as Friedrich Nietzsche William James Martin Heidegger Michel Foucault and Jacques Derrida The similarities between madness and modernism are striking defiance of authority and convention an extreme often dizzying relativism which can culminate in paralysis nihilism and all embracing irony a tantalizing uncanny but always frustrating sense of revelation obliteration of standard forms of time and narrative pervasive dehumanization and disappearance of external reality in favor of the omnipotent ego or alternatively dissolution of all sense of selfhood This rigorously argued gracefully written book offers a startlingly new vision of schizophrenia an illness long recognized as the greatest challenge to psychiatric or psychological understanding Conventionally seen as a loss of rationality perhaps involving a return to some infantile or bestial condition schizophrenia according to Sass is better understood as in a sense a disease of hyper-rationality with detachment from action emotions and the body and entrapment in forms of acute self consciousness and heightened awareness Sass refuses to romanticize the schizophrenic as a heroic rebel mystic or passionate Wildman arguing instead that this condition echoes many of the most alienating aspects of modern life In an epilogue and appendix he considers whether modern culture might actively contribute to the genesis or shaping of schizophrenic forms of pathology and he discusses the possible role of abnormalities of the brain BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved Latin American Women and the Literature of Madness Elvira Sánchez-Blake, Laura Kanost, 2015-05-14 At the turn of the millennium narrative works by Latin American women writers have represented madness within contexts of sociopolitical strife and gender inequality This book explores
