Madonna - Confessions on a dance floor Madonna,2005 Madonna ,2000 "Madonna On the Couch" Matthias Groß,2008-07-16 Seminar paper from the year 2007 in the subject American Studies Literature grade 1 0 University of Leipzig Institut f r Amerikanistik course Psychoanalysis in Literature language English abstract This paper is taking interest in Madonna and psychoanalysis yet it is not supposed to conclude as an analysis of Madonna and her psychic condition as a patient However what I am trying to do on the following pages is to detect and employ various concepts of Freud s revolutionary theory or rather theories in the context of pop star Madonna and her music videos in particular Initiated by a seminar on psychoanalysis and literature this paper tries to portray how influential Freud s findings were and to this day still are but probably also that the post Freudian society at times seems to escape into thoroughly explaining matters with the help of their layman understandings and ideas of psychoanalysis What I am trying to say is that one is tempted to overdo interpretations with the help of psychoanalysis ignoring the fact that it has limitations as well I noticed myself especially becoming oblivious to that fact when analyzing Madonna That occurrence however exemplifies how prone we are as post Freudians to employ this theory in our thinking understanding and interpretation of ideas and concepts not only in academic spheres but also in everyday life I have tried to structure this paper in accordance of the various psychoanalytic concepts that I chose to discuss in regard to Madonna s music videos However my intended agenda for this essay proved somewhat incompatible with my findings which means that quite frequently there was no clear cut distinction to make between for instance the universal prominence of sexuality and the dream and their overall importance in applying psychoanalytic theory on literary texts in this case on music videos and sequences Owing to better readability and coherence however I still arranged this paper in chapters pointing out once more that cross references and repetitions to some extent are indispensable Since the focus of this paper is on Madonna s music videos visual representations so to speak I start out discussing the importance of psychoanalysis and its ramifications for film theory I have struggled with the equalization of entire films in which film theory is based and music videos yet I have found that these sequences in a way tell entire stories as well and owing to their limitations in regard to the time frame are condensed to a much larger extent than are ordinary films which is reflected in the frequent employment of symbolism and ciphers in music video composition This condensation itself implies a close similarity to Freud s comments about the dream work Beginning with general theoretical observations on film theory and psychoanalysis in terms of modes and conventions of perception I will lead to the discussion of the actual contents of Madonna s music videos in regard to at least some of Freud s ideas
