of the owl These innovations he argues reflect assertions of independence and a redistribution of power that contributed to the Maya collapse in the Late Classic period Eberl emphasizes that decision making the ability to imagine alternate worlds and to act on that vision plays a large role in changing social structure over time Contextualizing these decisions in his Garden of Forking Paths model Eberl shows how innovators were those individuals who imagined an array of possible futures and negotiated power to reach desirable outcomes He dissects the social underpinning of Maya creativity by illustrating their situated method of learning via observation and imitation stressing that societal constraints or opportunities dictated whether members ideas were realized Pinpointing where and when Maya inventions emerged how individuals adopted them and why War Owl Falling connects technological and social change in a novel way A volume in the series Maya Studies edited by Diane Z Chase and Arlen F Chase Social Sciences Lawrence Boudon, Katherine D.
