Sensual Reading New Approaches To Reading In Its Relations To The Senses

Michael Syrotinski, Ian Maclachlan

Sensual Reading New Approaches To Reading In Its Relations To The Senses:

Sensual Reading Michael Syrotinski, Ian Maclachlan, 2001 Sensual Reading is a collection of essays that attempts to rearticulate the relationship between reading and the different senses as a way of moving beyond increasingly homogenized discourses of the body and the subject Contributions engage with the individual senses with the themes of sensory richness and sensory deprivation and with the notion of telesensuality

The Nets of Modernism Maud Ellmann, 2010-09-30 One of the finest literary critics of her generation Maud Ellmann synthesises her work on modernism psychoanalysis and Irish literature in this important new book In sinuous readings of Henry James James Joyce and Virginia Woolf she examines the interconnections between developing technological networks in modernity and the structures of modernist fiction linking both to Freudian psychoanalysis The Nets of Modernism examines the significance of images of bodily violation and exchange scar bite wound and their psychic equivalents showing how these images correspond to vampirism and related obsessions in early twentieth century culture Subtle original and a pleasure to read this 2010 book offers a fresh perspective on the inter implications of Freudian psychoanalysis and Anglophone modernism that will influence the field for years to come

The Cambridge Companion to Lacan Jean-Michel Rabaté, 2003-07-31 This collection of specially commissioned essays by academics and practising psychoanalysts first published in 2003 explores key dimensions of Jacques Lacan's life and works Lacan is renowned as a theoretician of psychoanalysis whose work is still influential in many countries He refashioned psychoanalysis in the name of philosophy and linguistics at the time when it underwent a certain intellectual decline Advocating a return to Freud by which he meant a close reading in the original of Freud's works he stressed the idea that the unconscious functions like a language All essays in this Companion focus on key terms in Lacan's often difficult and idiosyncratic developments of psychoanalysis This volume will bring fresh accessible perspectives to the work of this formidable and influential thinker These essays supported by a useful chronology and guide to further reading will prove invaluable to students and teachers alike

Narrating the Visual in Shakespeare Richard Meek, 2017-03-02 This book examines Shakespeare's fascination with the art of narrative and the viscosity of language Richard Meek complicates our conception of Shakespeare as either a man of the theatre or a literary dramatist suggesting ways in which his works themselves debate the question of text versus performance Beginning with an exploration of the pictorialism of Shakespeare's narrative poems the book goes on to examine several moments in Shakespeare's dramatic works when characters break off the action to describe an absent offstage event place or work of art Meek argues that Shakespeare does not simply prioritise drama over other forms of representation but rather that he repeatedly exploits the interplay between different types of mimesis narrative dramatic and pictorial in order to beguile his audiences and readers Setting Shakespeare's works in their literary and rhetorical contexts and engaging with contemporary literary theory the book offers new readings of Venus and Adonis The Rape of Lucrece Hamlet King Lear and The Winter's Tale The book will be of particular relevance to readers interested in the relationship between verbal and visual art theories of representation and mimesis Renaissance literary and rhetorical culture and debates regarding Shakespeare's status as a literary dramatist

Travel in Twentieth-Century French and Francophone Cultures Charles Forsdick, 2005-05-19 This book is one of the first studies of twentieth century travel literature in French tracking the form from the colonial past to the postcolonial present Whereas most recent explorations of travel literature have addressed English language material Forsdick's study complements these by presenting a body of material that has previously attracted little attention ranging from conventional travel writing to other cultural phenomena such as the Colonial Exposition of 1931 in which changing attitudes to travel are apparent Travel in Twentieth Century French and Francophone Cultures explores the evolution of attitudes to cultural diversity explaining how each generation seems simultaneously to foretell the collapse and reinvention of elsewhere It also follows the progressive renegotiation of understandings of travel and travel literature across the twentieth century focusing in particular on the emergence of travel narratives from France's former colonies The book suggests that an exclusive colonial understanding of travel as a practice defined along the lines of class gender and ethnicity has slowly been transformed so that travel has become an enabling figure encapsulated in notions such as James Clifford's traveling cultures central to analyses of contemporary global culture Engaging initially with Victor Segalen's early twentieth century reflection on travel and exoticism and Albert Kahn's Archives de la Plan te Forsdick goes on to examine a series of interrelated texts and phenomena early African travel narratives inter war ethnography post war accounts of Citro n 2CV journeys the travel stories of immigrant workers the work of Nicholas Bouvier and the Pour une litt rature voyageuse movement narratives of recent walking journeys and contemporary Polynesian literature In delineating a francophone space stretching far beyond metropolitan France itself the book contributes to new understandings of French and Francophone Studies and will also be of interest to those interested in issues of comparatism as well as colonial and postcolonial culture and identity

A History of Food in Literature Charlotte Boyce, Joan Fitzpatrick, 2017-05-18 When novels plays and poems refer to food they are often doing much more than we might think Recent critical thinking suggests that depictions of food in literary works can help to explain the complex relationship between the body subjectivity and social structures A History of Food in Literature provides a clear and comprehensive overview of significant episodes of food and its consumption in major canonical literary works from the medieval period to the twenty first century This volume contextualises these works with reference to pertinent historical and cultural materials such as cookery books diaries and guides to good health in order to engage with the critical debate on food and literature and how ideas of food have developed over the centuries Organised chronologically and examining certain key writers from every period including Chaucer Shakespeare Austen and Dickens this book's enlightening critical analysis makes it relevant for anyone interested in the study of food and literature

Sound, Sin, and Conversion in Victorian England Julia Grella O'Connell, 2018-04-19 The plight of the fallen woman is one of the salient themes of nineteenth century art and literature

indeed the ubiquity of the trope galvanized the Victorian conscience and acted as a spur to social reform In some notable examples Julia Grella O Connell argues the iconography of the Victorian fallen woman was associated with music reviving an ancient tradition conflating the practice of music with sin and the abandonment of music with holiness The prominence of music symbolism in the socially committed quasi religious paintings of the Pre Raphaelites and their circle and in the Catholic Wagnerian novels of George Moore gives evidence of the survival of a pictorial language linking music with sin and conversion and shows even more remarkably that this language translated fairly easily into the cultural lexicon of Victorian Britain Drawing upon music iconography art history patristic theology and sensory theory Grella O Connell investigates female fallenness and its implications against the backdrop of the social and religious turbulence of the mid nineteenth century

Déjà Vu Peter Krapp, 2004 Referring to a past that never was d j vu shares a structure not only with fiction but also with the ever more sophisticated effects of media technology Tracing the term from the end of the nineteenth century when it was first popularized in the pages of the Revue philosophique Peter Krapp examines the genealogy and history of the singular and unrepeatable experience of d j vu This provocative book offers a refreshing counterpoint to the cliché celebrations of cultural memory and forces us to take a double take on the sanctimonious warnings against forgetting so common in our time Disturbances of cultural memory screen memories false recognitions premonitions disrupt the comfort zone of memorial culture strictly speaking d j vu is neither a failure of memory nor a form of forgetting Krapp's analysis of such disturbances in literature art and mass media introduces historicizes and theorizes what it means to speak of an economy of attention or distraction Reaching from the early psychoanalytic texts of Sigmund Freud to the plays of Heiner Müller this exploration of the effects of d j vu pivots around the work of Walter Benjamin and includes readings of kitsch and aura in Andy Warhol's work of cinematic violence and certain exaggerated claims about shooting and cutting of the memorial character of architecture and of the high expectations raised by the Internet Peter Krapp lecturer in the Department of Cultural Studies and Comparative Literature at the University of Minnesota coedited Medium Cool a special issue of the South Atlantic Quarterly on contemporary media theory He has published in the fields of German studies media studies and literary theory and since 1995 has acted as editor of the Hydra Web site for theories of literature and media

Memory, Nationalism, and Narrative in Contemporary South Asia J. Edward Mallot, 2012-09-25 This book investigates the ambivalent responses to the opposing compulsions of memory and forgetting in cultural production in South Asia Mallot reveals how writers such as

Salman Rushdie Michael Ondaatje and Amitav Ghosh indict nationalism's sins by accessing and encoding the past Multimodal Literacies and Emerging Genres Tracey Bowen, Carl Whithaus, 2013-04-01 A student's avatar navigates a virtual world and communicates the desires, emotions and fears of its creator. Yet how can her writing instructor interpret this form of meaningmaking? Today multiple modes of communication and information technology are challenging pedagogies in composition and across the disciplines. Writing instructors grapple with incorporating new forms into their curriculums and relating them to established literary practices. Administrators confront the application of new technologies to the restructuring of courses and the classroom itself. Multimodal Literacies and Emerging Genres examines the possibilities, challenges and realities of multimodal composition as an effective means of communication. The chapters view the ways that writing instructors and their students are exploring the spaces where communication occurs while also asking what else is possible. The genres of film, audio, photography, graphics, speeches, storyboards, PowerPoint presentations, virtual environments, written works and others are investigated to discern both their capabilities and limitations. The contributors highlight the responsibility of instructors to guide students in the consideration of their audience and ethical responsibility while also maintaining the ability to speak well. Additionally, they focus on the need for programmatic changes and a shift in institutional philosophy to close a possible digital divide and remain relevant in digital and global economies. Embracing and advancing multimodal communication is essential to both higher education and students. The contributors therefore call for the examination of how writing programs, faculty and administrators are responding to change and how the many purposes writing serves can effectively converge within composition curricula.

Singular Performances Michael Syrotinski, 2002 Francophone African writing is often concerned with questions of subjectivity and narrative agency and it is this focus Michael Syrotinski takes as his point of departure in Singular Performances. Using the work of V. Y. Mudimbe as a major theoretical reference, Syrotinski sets up a number of original dialogues between francophone African literature, African philosophy, literary theory, postcolonial studies, cinema, cultural studies and history to arrive at the notion of a performative reinscription of subjectivity. Singular Performances covers a wide range of francophone African writers, each of whom is read within a broader theoretical context related to African subjectivity. Mudimbe and the philosophical subject, Aoua K. Ita and autobiography, Bernard Dadi and ethnographic irony, Ousmane Sembène and Tierno Monémbo and the cinematic imagination, Vronique Tadjo and Werewere Liking and the female writing subject and Sony Labou Tansi and the spectral subject. In this skillful interdisciplinary weaving together of contemporary theory and literature, the focus on the francophone African subject allows for a richer appreciation of the texture and rhetoric of the language of the texts themselves. What emerges from this study is the subject understood not as a single homogenized entity but as a plural celebration of singular francophone African subjectivities.

Everyday Life Michael Sheringham, 2006-03-09 In the last twenty years the concept of the quotidien or the everyday has been prominent in contemporary French culture and in British and American cultural studies This book provides the first comprehensive analytical survey of the whole field of approaches to the everyday It offers firstly a historical perspective demonstrating the importance of mainstream and dissident Surrealism the indispensable contribution over a 20 year period 1960 80 of four major figures Henri Lefebvre Roland Barthes Michel de Certeau and Georges Perec and the recent proliferation of works that investigate everyday experience Secondly it establishes the framework of philosophical ideas on which discourses on the everyday depend but which they characteristically subvert Thirdly it comprises searching analyses of works in a variety of genres including fiction the essay poetry theatre film photography and the visual arts consistently stressing how explorations of the everyday tend to question and combine genres in richly creative ways By demonstrating the enduring contribution of Perec and others and exploring the Surrealist inheritance the book proposes a genealogy for the remarkable upsurge of interest in the everyday since the 1980s A second main objective is to raise questions about the dimension of experience addressed by artists and thinkers when they invoke the quotidien or related concepts Does the everyday refer to an objective content defined by particular activities or is it best thought of in terms of rhythm repetition festivity ordinariness the generic the obvious the given Are there events or acts that are uniquely everyday or is the quotidien a way of thinking about events and acts in the here and now as opposed to the longer term What techniques or genres are best suited to conveying the nature of everyday life The book explores these questions in a comparative spirit drawing new parallels between the work of numerous writers and artists including Andr Breton Raymond Queneau Walter Benjamin Michel Leiris Maurice Blanchot Michel Foucault Stanley Cavell Annie Ernaux Jacques R da and Sophie Calle
