1606 Evan McHugh, 2006 Until 1606 the Great South Land was a mystery to Europeans When Dutchman Willem Janszoon captain of the Duyfken landed at Cape York 400 years ago he thought he was in New Guinea By the time Matthew Flinders charts were published in 1814 Australia had emerged on the map and in name This book tells the stories of the seafaring explorers the shipwrecks mutinies and daring escapes that came after Janszoon including the voyages of Torres and La Perouse Dampier Cook and D Entrecasteaux These are tales of adventure discovery and navigational triumph in the face of hardship starvation and disaster at the far end of the world BOOK JACKET Navigating by the Southern Cross Kenneth Morgan, 2021-01-28 In this comprehensive study Kenneth Morgan provides an authoritative account of European exploration and discovery in Australia The book presents a detailed chronological overview of European interests in the Australian continent from initial speculations about the Great Southern Land to the major hydrographic expeditions of the 19th century In particular he analyses the early crossings of the Dutch in the 17th century the exploits of English buccaneer adventurer William Dampier the famous voyages of James Cook and Matthew Flinders and the little known French annexation of Australia in 1772 Introducing new findings and drawing on the latest in historiographical research this book situates developments in navigation nautical astronomy and cartography within the broader contexts of imperial colonial and maritime history The Savage Shore Graham Seal, 2016-04-26 For centuries before the arrival in Australia of Captain Cook and the so called First Fleet in 1788 intrepid seafaring explorers had been searching with varied results for the fabled Great Southland In this enthralling history of early discovery Graham Seal offers breathtaking tales of shipwrecks perilous landings and Aboriginal encounters with the more than three hundred Europeans who washed up on these distant shores long before the land was claimed by Cook for England The author relates dramatic previously untold legends of survival gleaned from the centuries of Dutch Spanish Portuguese French and Indonesian voyages to Australia and debunks commonly held misconceptions about the earliest European settlements ships of the Dutch East Indies Company were already active in the region by the early seventeenth century and the Dutch rather than the English were probably the first European settlers on the continent Batavia's Graveyard Mike Dash, 2003-05-27 In 1628 the Dutch East India Company loaded the Batavia the flagship of its fleet with a king's ransom in gold silver and gems for her maiden voyage to Java the ship itself was a tangible symbol of the world's richest and most powerful monopoly The company also sent along a new employee to guard its treasure He was Jeronimus Corneliszoon a disgraced and bankrupt man with great charisma and dangerously heretical ideas With the help of a few disgruntled sailors he hatched a plot to seize the ship and her riches The mutiny might have succeeded but in the dark morning hours of June 3 1629 the Batavia smashed through a coral reef and ran aground on a small chain of islands near Australia The captain and skipper escaped the wreck and in a tiny lifeboat they set sail for Java some 1 500 miles north to summon help More than 250 frightened survivors waded ashore thankful to be alive Unfortunately Jeronimus and the mutineers had survived too and the nightmare was only beginning      The Discovery of Australia George Collingridge,1895
