Rothstein On Reference With Some Help From Friends:

Rothstein on Reference- with Some Help from Friends Samuel Rothstein, 1989 Now library professionals can enjoy the convenience of having 16 of Sam Rothstein's most memorable papers spanning over three decades all in one lively book. Samuel Rothstein, practitioner, teacher, and scholar, has influenced the thinking and practice of more reference librarians who are currently practicing than has any other single individual. In his honor, the editors of Rothstein on Reference not only feature Rothstein's seminal writing but they have also included essays written by Rothstein's colleagues including Charles Curran, Robert Hauptman, Marilyn Domas White, and Mary Biggs that explore important issues confronting reference librarians today. Reference librarians and library historians will gain insights into the development of reference service in American libraries, the evaluation of reference services, the training and education of reference librarians, and much more. Both beginners and experts in the reference field will find much here for inspiration and enlightenment. The Holocaust

Linda S Katz, 2014-02-04. Comprised of a wide breadth of scholarly materials and diverse articulations, The Holocaust: Memories, Research, Reference will help you guide others in Holocaust research and show you how you can avoid contributing to the popularization and trivialization of the Holocaust. You'll find in it poems by the prolific American poet Lyn Lifshin, an essay by Arnost Lustig, work by Roselle Chartock, commentary by Howard Israel on the controversial Pernkopf Atlas, writing on the historian's role by Michael Marrus, a top Holocaust scholar, and views on linguistic distortions by Sanford Berman, the well-known cataloger. In addition, you'll read about the U.S. Memorial Holocaust Museum preparing a Holocaust unit for high school students, incorporating contemporary Holocaust articles into Holocaust study, Holocaust webliographies, comparative genocide studies, and the future of Holocaust research. Holocaust denial literature. Holocaust reference work in its preferred form doesn't substitute method, empiricism, and quantification for substance, emotion, and qualitative discussion. This form is captured and preserved for the benefit of future survivors and scholars in The Holocaust: Memories, Research, Reference. Informed by years of experience and suffering, it will take you and your library visitors to the heart of research and allow you to re-search the human heart. Modern Library Technology and Reference Services Samuel T. Huang, 1993. A dozen articles suggest a variety of ways for libraries to enhance their daily reference service and the image of librarianship and to bring in more users. They emphasize the interaction of both the staff and the clients with new technology. Also published as The Reference Librarian no. 39, 1993. No index. The paper edition has the same ISBN. Reynolds, 1994-11-11 This helpful book provides practical insight into the work and environment of reference services in the humanities. Librarian's mental maps of humanities reference materials must include an awareness of the metaphoric, not too precise nature of many patrons' queries. Reference Services in the Humanities discusses the structure of literature in the humanities and how it matches or challenges mental images of the field. Chapters are infused with the issues of language, names, and meaning within a metaphoric genre. The book serves as a guide to humanists' use of metaphoric language and also as a bibliography of sources. Reference Services in the Humanities contains specific references for finding materials in areas that are not traditional mainstream arts. This sample of disciplines provides case studies depicting each field's particular idiosyncrasies. Chapters examine the challenge of referral, reference, and common problems encountered in searching for answers to patrons' questions. The book contains a theoretical framework for interacting with patrons and addresses options for humanities reference in an electronic age. This book brings together librarians and researchers who provide and manage reference services to a wide array of disciplines within the humanities. Authors come from all types of libraries and represent a broad spectrum of patrons from the young student curious about the movies to practicing musicians and craftspersons. This diversity provides an informative grounding for practitioners and library school students and faculty who wish to become effective reference librarians in the future. Reference Services in the Humanities is divided into four sections which address research questions and challenges in selected disciplines, descriptions from the field, political issues in the humanities, and theories and ideas for the future. Specific topics explored include access to special collections, censorship, library resources for theater artists, history research, vocabulary control, labeling of minorities, craft information sources, and much more. School Library Reference Services in the 90s Carol Truett, 1994 Here is a succinct update on school library reference services for the busy practitioner or student. Exploring the state and state of the art of school library reference services in the 1990s, this book provides an overview of current information skills teaching models, the impact of new technologies on the teaching of reference, and the student search process and assessment and evaluation models for gauging the success of school reference services. School Library Reference Services in the 90s is an informative guide for school media coordinators and specialists, library science graduate students, and professors and researchers in the field to help them understand what students must learn and what teachers must teach to keep everyone up to date in the fast-changing world of reference. School Library Reference Services in the 90s is divided into three sections that cover reference, research, teaching models, technology, and evaluation. Topics in the first section include an examination of the current state of affairs in reference teaching, a look at various models for integrating library research and reference skills into the curricula.

and discussions of the effects of these new models on the school librarian's role. Section two addresses the profound effect new technologies such as CD-ROM, multimedia CD-I and CD-TV are having on both the teaching of reference and information skills and on the entire research process from initiation to production of the final student report. The last section presents three models for assessing the effectiveness of school reference services and skills instruction. School library reference services and particularly library instruction are changing dramatically in the 1990s as a result of the information age. School Library Reference Services in the 90s helps professionals in the field stay abreast of current developments and be more effective in their jobs.

Implementing an Inclusive Staffing Model for Today's Reference Services Julia K.

Nims, Paula Storm, Robert Stevens, 2013-11-26. Reference service remains a core function of modern libraries. However, how and where we provide assistance has evolved with changing technologies and the shifting habits and preferences of our users. One way libraries can provide the on-demand in-person assistance while managing and developing new services and resources that will benefit current and future users is to reconsider how their reference points and services are staffed and adopt a staff-based reference model. The authors, staff members at Eastern Michigan University, chose to address this by implementing an inclusive reference model in which staff and student assistants are trained to answer certain levels of reference questions while working at the reference desk and at other service points. The result was that librarians became more available to work with students who needed in-depth assistance and users were able to get simple questions answered throughout the library. Similar training for all staff and student assistants who work in the library results in better service, more accurate answers and improved interdepartmental communication. In Implementing an Inclusive Staffing Model for Today's Reference Services they describe step by step how to transition from the traditional librarian-staffed reference desk to an inclusive reference model where non-MLS personnel are equipped and empowered to answer reference questions wherever these questions might be asked. Users ask questions of staff at all service points, not just at the Reference Desk. It is vitally important that those who work at circulation, periodicals, maps, archives and other public service points be trained in how to answer certain reference questions. When this is accomplished, users who have simple questions will not have to make useless treks to the Reference Desk. Topics covered include: Recognizing that nearly all staff answer reference questions but few are trained to do so; documenting the necessity for a change in reference model; gaining buy-in from all interested parties; librarians, non-MLS staff and administrators; determining the optimal staffing level; creating training materials and schedules; monitoring the quality of reference service; supervising staff; evaluating the new model using multiple methods. Additionally, each chapter contains practical resources such as checklists, forms and sample materials and other usable features to support readers as they implement the inclusive reference model. The book describes in detail the process of transforming traditional reference into a model that transcends departmental and job title boundaries, is focused on the user and allows librarians to better utilize their time and talents and include non-professional staff in their reference services.
