New Barbarism Boris Kagarlitsky,1999-09-20 In this radical and controversial overview of the post communist world Boris Kagarlitsky argues that the very success of neoliberal capitalism has made traditional socialism all the more necessary and feasible Kagarlitsky argues that leftists exaggerate the importance of the objective aspects of the new reality globalisation and the weakening of the state while underestimating the importance of the hegemony of neoliberalism As long as neoliberalism retains its ideological hegemony despite its economic failure the consequence is a new barbarism already a reality in Eastern Europe and now also emerging in the West Kagarlitsky challenges the political neurosis of the left and prevailing assumptions of Marxism to argue that Marx s theories are now more timely than they were in the mid twentieth century He analyses theories of the end of the proletariat and the end of work and assesses the potential of the new technologies such as the Internet which create fresh challenges for capitalism and new arenas for struggle Shuttle-Mir Clay Morgan,2001
