Shared Responsibility Families And Social Policy:

Shared Responsibility Robert Moroney, One of the fundamental issues confronting those who create analyze or work within the framework of modern American social welfare policy is the relationship of the family and the state in the delivery of social care through social services Dr Moroney develops the idea of the family as both recipient and dispenser of social services Simply and effectively he paints the landscape with respect to American families He focuses on two special cases families with frail elderly and families with severely mentally handicapped children The notion of shared responsibility between the family and state the nature of social welfare response through government programs and the professional response of social workers to families in need and some of the dilemmas inherent in formulating family policy in a multicultural pluralistic society are examined Shared Responsibility Robert M. Families and Social Policy Linda Haas,Steven K. Wisensale,2006-11-01 Empirical research that describes ways to best handle social problems concerning families Leading authorities studies show that from the effects of globalization many social and family problems and their solutions tend to be similar in nations world wide Families and Social Policy National and International Perspectives explores Shared Responsibility, Shared Risk Jacob Hacker,Ann O'Leary,2012-01-19 How can the American social welfare system be repaired so that workers and families receive adequate protection and if necessary provision from the ravages of the market This book addresses this fundamental problem and analyses how the privatization of risk has increased hardships for American families and increased inequality It also proposes a series of solutions that would distribute the burdens of risks more broadly and expand the social safety net Children and Families in the Social Environment James Garbarino,2017-07-12 The first edition of this volume successfully applied Bronfenbrenner s micro systems taxonomy to childrearing and family life Emphasizing how forces in the environment influence children s behavior Garbarino has staked out an intermediate position between the psychoanalytic and the systems approach to human development Taking cognizance of new research and of changes in American society Garbarino has once again carefully analyzed the importance of children s social relationships For this wholly revised second edition he has incorporated a greater emphasis on ethnic cultural and racial issues Serving the Elderly Paul Kim,2017-07-12 Broadly speaking there are two kinds of professional practice skills relevant to the burgeoning field of gerontological human service clinical modalities and macro strategies This book identifies seven essential approaches to clinical gerontology including five of the most important macro skills that all professionals in the field will need to acquire and it presents each of them in a single collection intended to serve as a basic text and reference work for academic and in service training Each contributor to this volume speaks with recognized expertise on his her preferred subject while mindful of the larger purpose of the collection as a whole In a concluding chapter Dr Kim draws on his own long and successful experience in obtaining financial support for his programs and provides a wealth of useful information on the preparation of grant proposals and the conduct of other fundraising activities Serving the Elderly is adaptable to the uses of a wide variety of geriatric health care providers from students and trainees in social work clinical psychology and other care giving professions to already established practitioners who are branching out in gerontology

Family Relations Timothy H. Brubaker, 1992-10-26 As the social world of American families feverishly changes single parent families dual career couples and blended families have quickly become the norm rather than the exception In Family Relations a distinguished group of leading family researchers including Joan Huber David Olson Hamilton McCubbin and Marilyn Coleman examines the social changes that have gripped society and explains their impact on family relationships and functioning Initial chapters address principal theories of change the remainder of the volume addresses the predominant challenges facing contemporary families such as work family interface violence family dysfunction family crisis divorce and the transition to marriage and parenthood The contributors make suggestions for change in family policy family therapy and family life education and conclude with an overview of the current state of families and future directions This comprehensive and interesting volume is for students family researchers sociologists psychologists counselors family life educators and policy analysts True to its aim it informs about the latest understandings and tools of intervention to help overcome the formidable challenges to the family there is some worthy scholarship to be found in this volume chapter 3 on gender and role change is a lively and readable summary British Journal of Social Work This volume has much to offer For example the volume contains demographic information often needed by practitioners and policymakers at a moment's notice Literature reviews not only summarize research on a particular topic but also are organized around a theoretical framework Well known authors have contributed scholarly insightful commentaries on current family issues and challenges for the future In short this book provides information that practitioners and policymakers could use to do the following establish the need and rationale for programming and applied research justify the expenditure of funds for children and families ground their work in theory and research conduct in service education and consider program evaluation strategies This book is well written and provides a valuable resource for the intended readership I look forward to the second volume Journal of Marriage and the Family

Women's Issues in Social Policy Mavis Maclean,Dulcie Groves,2024-11-20 During the 1980s a notable development in mainstream social policy in the United Kingdom was the emergence of a feminist critique Originally published in 1991 Women s Issues in Social Policy was intended as a contribution to the social policy literature which could also be used in a women s studies context It demonstrates the impossibility of understanding the welfare state without appreciating how it treats women especially as dependants within the family and the conflicts of interest between men and women as well as the unequal power relationships in the welfare context It also highlights the fact that women s traditional role in welfare provision is as unpaid carers for children the elderly and incapacitated people and is particularly concerned with the everyday experiences and dissatisfactions of women which had largely been ignored within mainstream social policy research and literature at the time Women s Issues in Social Policy incorporates recent research findings written from a feminist perspective and reveals the breadth and depth of recent work in previously unexplored areas such as time budgeting and transport as well as developing analysis in traditional areas of interest such as health and personal care The editors also looked into the wider European context and included a chapter which examines whether the abortion issue would give birth to feminism in Poland Women s Issues in Social Policy will be of value to teachers and students of social policy and women s studies as well as of interest to the general reader

Social Policy for an Aging Society Carole B. Cox,2015-01-16 As people age they are at increased risk of having their basic human rights threatened or violated When age is perceived as incompetence it can easily lead to discrimination that impacts human rights Based on the premise that social policy must reflect human rights principles this graduate level textbook views the challenges associated with aging as opportunities for policy development that stresses the rights of older adults rather than needs The text distinguishes between needs and rights and describes those policies and services that best ensure that the rights of older adults are actually met particularly programs that enable people to remain in their own communities so they can benefit from continued integration and participation in society Issues and challenges surrounding such efforts and gaps in social policies faced by specific subsets of older people are critically examined The book first analyzes current aging policies and rights and considers the Older Americans Act as a basic policy framework. With an eye to promoting independence, the book discusses issues of income, housing, transportation, health, and home care and what constitutes a livable community along with policies that promote wellbeing and focus on preventing senior abuse and exploitation. Challenges faced by older workers are covered, as are issues particular to family caregivers, older women, and grandparents as caregivers. Gaps in social policies for LG/BT seniors and older members of specific ethnic groups are discussed. Particular attention is given to global issues and aging policies in diverse countries and the ways in which they reflect human rights concerns. Each chapter concludes with probing discussion questions for classroom use.

KEY FEATURES

- Presents a human rights framework for aging policy.
- Distinguishes between needs and rights of older persons.
- Focuses on policies and programs that can help older people to remain in the community.
- Explores the issues and challenges of specific older populations.
- Discusses global responses and concerns with regard to older persons and human rights.

Carole B. Cox, MSW, PhD, is professor at the Graduate School of Social Service, Fordham University. She is a fellow of the Gerontological Society of America and a Fulbright scholar. She is the author of more than 50 journal articles and chapters dealing with various aspects of aging and caregiving, with extensive research on caregivers for persons with dementia, their needs, and their use of services. Her recent work includes a study of the impact of dementia on the workplace. Her caregiving research also includes that of grandparents raising grandchildren, leading to the development of a curriculum, Empowering Grandparents Raising Grandchildren: A Training Manual for Group Leaders, Springer Publishing Company, 2000. She is the editor of To Grandmother's House We Go and Stay: Perspectives on Custodial Grandparents, Springer Publishing Company, 2000. Families, Schools, and Delinquency Prevention, Glenn C. Loury, James Q. Wilson, 2013-03-09. Are there ways to intervene early in a child's life that might reduce at a reasonable cost the probability of his becoming a serious delinquent? The results of some small-scale social experiments have been published suggesting that certain kinds of preschool education and parent training might have desirable and lasting effects. In addition, there is growing evidence that some kinds of medical intervention and certain forms of school organization and ethos could help reduce the rate of misconduct. The authors provide a full-scale assessment of the evidence that might lead to the design of new research and action efforts.

Social Treatment, James K. Whittaker, Elizabeth M. Tracy, 1989. The book has two principal purposes: To provide an introduction to interpersonal helping in the context of social work practice and to develop a conceptual framework for interpersonal helping called social treatment that will enable the social worker and members of other helping professions effectively to use all the various methods and strategies currently practiced The book offers an orderly and systematic way of proceeding through a complex and often confused area of practice in it large issues such as remediation versus prevention are explored along with concrete suggestions for intervention with individuals families and small groups Theoretical systems are considered not merely for the techniques they suggest but also for the values and views of man inherent in them The helping process itself is analyzed from the point of view of the consumer as well as the worker A conceptual framework for practice is developed that allows for systematic eclecticism in theory and technique providing a framework for evaluating and comparing different methods of social treatment The author defines social treatment as an approach to interpersonal helping which utilizes direct and indirect strategies of intervention to aid individuals families and small groups in improving social functioning and coping with social problems Beginning with a discussion of the concept of remediation within the context of the larger contemporary issues of social reform and environmental protection Professor Whittaker proceeds to consider several critical issues in present social work practice such as client advocacy service delivery systems and professionalization Subsequent chapters discuss the multiple roles that social work practitioners perform the major theoretical bases of social treatment the treatment sequence from intake to after care and the full range of helping activities that practitioners undertake indirectly on behalf of their clients The final chapter explores current trends and future directions in social treatment In the Appendix a framework for evaluating methods of interpersonal helping is developed and 21 approaches to social treatment are described and resource bibliographies are provided This book brief lucid and systematic is a major step toward that redefinition and will be invaluable to beginning students and advanced practitioners in social work and in all the other professional and paraprofessional fields engaged in providing human services James K Whittaker is Charles O Cressey endowed professor in the School of Social Work University of Washington He is a frequent consultant on child care training both in the Seattle area and nationally and is a consultant on research and training to the Child Development and Mental Retardation Center University of Washington He has served as director of the Social Welfare Program He is also a founding member of the International Association for Outcome Based Evaluation Research on Family and Children s Services in Italy as well as an associate board member of European Scientific Association for Residential and Foster Care for Children and Adolescents in Belgium
