Moving Images Culture And The Mind:

Moving Images, Culture, and the Mind Ib Bondebjerg, 2000 Since the rise of cinema in 1896 moving images have been of increased importance in the construction of culture and society and for the ways in which we interact with reality and with each other With the coming of television on a global mass scale in the 1960 s and the birth of computers and the information society in the 1980 s we are right now in an expanding and changing culture highly influenced by visual media Relocating Television Jostein Gripsrud, 2012-07-26 For over half a century television has been the most central medium in Western democracies the political social and cultural centrepiece of the public sphere Television has therefore rarely been studied in isolation from its socio cultural and political context there is always something important at stake when the forms and functions of television are on the agenda The digitisation of television concerns the production contents distribution and reception of the medium but also its position in the overall largely digitised media system and public sphere where the internet plays a decisive role The articles in this comprehensive collection are written by some of the world s most prominent scholars in the field of media communication and cultural studies including critical film and television studies Relocating Television offers readers an insight into studying television alongside the internet participatory media and other technocultural phenomena such as DVDs user generated content and everyday digital media production It also focuses on more specific programmes and phenomena including The Wire MSN amateur footage in TV news Bollywoodization of TV news YouTube fan sites tied to e g Grey s Anatomy and X Factor Relocating Television will be highly beneficial to both students and academics across a wide range of undergraduate and postgraduate courses including media communication and cultural studies and television and film studies The International Encyclopedia of Media Effects, 4 Volume Set Patrick Rössler, 2017-03-06 The International Encyclopedia of Media Effects presents a comprehensive collection of the most up to date research on the uses and impacts of media throughout the world Provides the definitive resource on the most recent findings of media effects research Covers all aspects of the uses and impact of media utilizing empirical psychological and critical research approaches to the field Features over 200 entries contributed by leading international scholars in their associated fields Offers invaluable insights to for students scholars and professionals studying and working in related fields and will stimulate new scholarship in emerging fields such as the Internet Social Media and Mobile Communication Part of The Wiley Blackwell ICA International Encyclopedias of Communication series published in conjunction with the International Communication Association Online version available at Wiley Online Library A Handbook of Media and Communication Research Klaus Bruhn Jensen, 2013-04-15 A Handbook of Media and Communications Research presents qualitative as well as quantitative approaches to the analysis and interpretation of media covering perspectives from both the social sciences and the humanities The Handbook offers a comprehensive review of earlier research and a set of guidelines for how to think about plan and carry out studies of media in different social and cultural contexts Divided into sections on

Cinematic Narration and its Psychological Impact Peter Wuss, 2009-03-26 Film provides experience potential Contemporary cognitive psychology gives the opportunity to define this impact on the film spectators mind in regard to different aspects of cognition imagination and emotion Proceeding from these positions this book considers a number of practical issues of cinematic narration with which filmmakers theorists and cineastes are frequently confronted What is storytelling and how may we objectify the regularities to be found at work in different modes of narration in the fiction film among them structural principles of art cinema which are often experienced on a level beneath conscious reception What is the role of the element of conflict in the process of narration and what are the effects that the representation of conflict situations on the screen has on the viewers emotions How can we define cinematic tension and also suspense and how does each influence the disposition of the audience What constitutes a reality effect in fiction films and how can it vary in different modes of storytelling How are a given protagonists dreams fantasies and play behaviour integrated both into the course of narrative events and into the development of the spectator s imageries and ideas And finally How do film genres work on a psychological level Providing a theoretical framework for further empirical research the book outlines a differentiated model for analysing key devices of cinematic narration in view of their impact on the spectators mind

Visual Environmental Communication Anders Hansen, David Machin, 2016-03-17 In 2008 the editors published a well cited journal paper arguing that while scholarly work on media representations of environmental issues had made substantial progress in textual analysis there had been much less work on visual representations This is surprising given the increasingly visual nature of media and communication and in light of emerging evidence that the environment is visualized through the use of increasingly symbolic and iconic images Addressing these matters this volume marks out the present state of the field and contains chapters that represent fresh and exciting high quality scholarly work now emerging on visual environmental communication These include a range of fascinating and often alarming topics which draw on a variety of methods and forms of visual communication The book demonstrates that research needs to think much more widely about what we mean by the visual which plays a massive yet under researched role in the politics and ideology of public understanding and misunderstanding of and the environment and environmental problems The book is of relevance to students and researchers in media and communication studies cultural studies film and visual studies geography sociology politics and other disciplines with an interest in the politics of visual environmental communication This book was published as a special issue of Environmental Communication A Journal of Nature and Culture

Cinematic Chronotopes Pepita Hesselberth, 2014-06-19 The site of cinema is on the move The extent to which technologically mediated sounds and images continue to be experienced as cinematic today is largely dependent on the intensified sense of being here now and me that they convey This intensification is fundamentally rooted in the cinematic s potential to intensify our experience of time to convey time's thickening of which the sense of place and a sense of self presence are the correlatives In this study Pepita Hesselberth traces this thickening of time across four different spatio temporal configurations of the cinematic a multi media exhibition featuring the work of Andy Warhol 1928 1987 the handheld aesthetics of European art house films a large scale media installation by Rafael Lozano Hemmer and the usage of the trope of the flash forward in mainstream Hollywood cinema Only by juxtaposing these cases by looking at what they have in common this study argues can we grasp the complexity of the changes that the cinematic is currently undergoing

Moving Images Jon Billsberry, Pauline Leonard, 2012-08-01 This book will inspire academics teachers and trainers to use film and television in their classrooms and to shows them how it might be done It brings together respected international scholars who recount their experiences of how they have used moving images in their classrooms defined widely to include distance learning with their explanations of why they chose this method of teaching and how they put their intentions into action The book also illustrates how particular subjects might be taught using film and television as an inspiration to demonstrate the range of opportunities that these media offer Finally this book considers some of the practical issues in using film and television in the classroom such as copyright technology and the representation of reality and drama in films This is a practical how to book that answers the questions of those people who have considered using film and television in their classroom but until now have shied away from doing so The opportunity to see how others have used film effectively breaks down psychological barriers and makes it seem both realistic and worthwhile

Realism and 'reality' in Film and Media Anne Jerslev, 2002 The 2002 theme of Northern Lights is dedicated to the representation of reality in film TV and new media a question of new importance in modern film and media where a new wave of realism has dominated cinema and reality TV became a mass phenomena on both TV and the internet Eleven articles by Danish British and American film and media researchers focus on two sub themes Film and Realism deals theoretically with film realism and analyses classic films and modern Danish Dogma films Documentary Forms Reality TV and New Media treats new forms of non fiction film TV and on the internet in a both theoretical and historical perspective

Routledge Encyclopedia of Narrative Theory David Herman, Manfred Jahn, Marie-Laure Ryan, 2010-06-10 The past several decades have seen an explosion of interest in narrative with this multifaceted object of inquiry becoming a central concern in a wide range of disciplinary fields and research contexts As accounts of what happened to particular people in particular circumstances and with specific consequences stories have come to be viewed as a basic human strategy for coming to terms with time process and change However the very predominance of narrative as a focus of interest across multiple disciplines makes it imperative for scholars teachers and students to have access to a comprehensive reference resource

Screen Stories Carl Plantinga, 2018-04-06 The way we communicate with each other is vital to preserving the cultural ecology or wellbeing of a place and time Do we listen to each other Do we ask the right questions Do we speak about each other with respect or disdain The stories that we convey on screens or what author Carl Plantinga calls screen stories are one powerful and pervasive means by which we communicate with each other Screen Stories Emotion and the Ethics of Engagement argues that film and media studies needs to move toward an approach to ethics that is more appropriate for mass consumer culture and the lives of its citizens Primarily concerned with the relationship between media and viewers this book considers ethical criticism and the emotional power of screen stories that makes such criticism necessary The content we consume from television shows and movies to advertisements can significantly affect our welfare on a personal and societal level and thus this content is subject to praise and celebration or questioning and even condemnation The types of screen stories that circulate contribute to the cultural ecology of a time and place through shared attention they influence what individuals think and feel Plantinga develops a theory of the power of screen stories to affect both individuals and cultures asserting that we can better respond ethically to such media if we understand the sources of its influence on us

Deleuze and Research

Methodologies Rebecca Coleman, 2013-02-25 Shows how Deleuze's philosophy is shaking up research in the humanities and social sciences Deleuzian thinking is having a significant impact on research practices in the Social Sciences not least because one of its key implications is the demand to break down the false divide between theory and practice This book brings together international academics from a range of Social Science and Humanities disciplines to reflect on how Deleuze's philosophy is opening up and shaping methodologies and practices of empirical research

The Oxford Handbook of Entertainment Theory Peter Vorderer, Christoph Klimmt, 2021 This Handbook provides an overview of psychology based research on media entertainment that investigates how media users are drawn into and affected by entertaining media experiences The 41 chapters introduce field defining and emerging theories and demonstrate their application to old and new media and a wide range of media contents

The Palgrave Handbook of Experimental Cinema Kim Knowles, Jonathan Walley, 2024-09-04 This book is a collection of newly commissioned essays by established and emerging scholars that maps out the current landscape of experimental cinema studies and sets agendas for future work in the field Introducing new critical methodologies and calling overdue attention to neglected artists regions and topics the contributions to this volume reassess and reassert experimental cinema as a site of formal exploration and interrogation as well as resistance to institutional political and social norms This collection articulates what it means for experimental cinema to be these things in the contemporary moment staking out new directions in thinking about the subject not only as a growing sub field of cinema studies but as an artistic and scholarly tradition in dialogue with art history visual culture philosophy and the sciences The contributions reflect a diversity of voices and perspectives weaving together theoretical poetic and personal modes of writing and traversing questions of form emotion materiality nationality postcoloniality the body and ecology

The Spectatorship of Suffering Lilie Chouliaraki, 2006-06-07 The work is on an important topic that has been oft debated but rarely systematically studied the political cultural and moral effects of distant news coverage of suffering The book is extremely well steeped in the relevant literature including semiotics discourse analysis media and social theory and makes a fresh methodological contribution by looking at the codes and formats of news about suffering It has a fresh vision and answer to some of the stickiest moral and media problems of our time and deserves to find its place among important books about the moral aspects of media and society in our times John D Peters F Wendell Miller Distinguished Professor University of Iowa Lillie Chouliaraki grounds her sophisticated arguments in meticulous research The result is a work of important scholarship that might even make us think about the world and its mediation in profoundly new ways Roger Silverstone Professor of Media and Communications The London School of Economics and Political Science Few intellectuals command this scope from classical rhetoric to the cutting edge of contemporary social theory as Lillie Chouliaraki is doing in her new book The Spectatorship of Suffering This book is destined in my mind to be foundational for our understanding of not just the media but of the highly complex social process of mediation Ron Scollon Professor of Linguistics Georgetown University This book is about the relationship between the spectators in countries of the west and the distant sufferer on the television screen the sufferer in Somalia Nigeria Bangladesh India Indonesia but also from New York and Washington DC How do we relate to television images of the distant sufferer This question touches on the ethical role of the media in public life today It addresses the issue of whether the media can cultivate a disposition of care for and engagement with the far away other whether television can create a global public with a sense of social responsibility towards the distant sufferer Dreaming of Fred and Ginger Annette Kuhn, 2002-11 One of the leading voices in cultural studies today examines the habits of British cinema audiences in the 1930s to reveal the role that cinema played in shaping their lives The Routledge Handbook of Media Use and Well-Being Leonard Reinecke, Mary Beth Oliver, 2016-06-23 The Routledge Handbook of Media Use and Well Being serves as the first international review of the current state of this fast developing area of research The volume provides a multifaceted perspective on the beneficial as well as the detrimental effects of media exposure on psychological health and well being As a first mover it will define the field of media use and well being and provide an essential resource for research and teaching in this area The volume is structured along four central considerations Processes presents concepts that provide a theoretical bridge between media use and well being such as psychological need satisfaction recovery from stress and strain self presentation and self enhancement or parasocial interactions with media characters providing a comprehensive understanding of the underlying processes that drive psychological health and well being through media Moderators examines both risk factors that promote negative effects on well being and protective factors that foster positive media effects Contexts bridges the gap between theory and real life by illustrating how media use can influence well being and satisfaction in very different life domains covering the full spectrum of everyday life by addressing the public private and work spheres Audiences takes a look at the influence of life phases and life situations on the interplay of media use and well being questioning whether various user groups differ with regard to the effects of media exposure Bringing together the expertise of outstanding international scholars from multiple disciplines including communication media psychology social psychology clinical psychology and media education this handbook sheds new light on the role of media in influencing and affecting emotions
