Subotic, Professor of Political Science Jelena Subotic, 2025-10-09 An illuminating exploration of the relationship between the restitution of looted art global status and the international construction of national cultural heritage Why is art restitution a matter of politics How does the artwork displayed in national museums reflect the international status of the state that owns it Why do some states agree to return looted art and others resist National art collections have long been a way for states to compete with each other for status prestige and cultural worth in international society In many former imperial nations however these collections include art looted during imperial expansions and colonial occupations While this was once a sign of high international standing the markers of such status particularly in the context of art have since significantly changed A new international legal and normative architecture governing art provenance developed after World War II and became institutionalized in the 1990s and 2000s Since then there have been national and global social movements demanding the return of looted art This shift has established not only that looting is wrong but more importantly that restitution is morally right As a result of this reframing of what it means to own art an artifact's historical provenance has become a core element of its value and the search for provenance and demands for restitution a direct threat to state status The same objects that granted states high international status now threaten to provoke status decline In The Art of Status Jelena Subotic examines this relationship between the restitution of looted art and international status with a focus on the Parthenon Elgin Marbles the Benin Bronzes and a collection of paintings looted during the Holocaust that are now housed at the Serbian National Museum Subotic tells the story of these artworks how they were looted how they ended up on display in national museums and how the art restitution disputes have unfolded While these cases are different in terms of their historical context of looting and ownership claims the movements for their restitution and resistance to it illustrate the larger questions of how national cultural heritage is internationally constructed and how it serves states desire for international status and prestige An in depth and nuanced account of art restitution disputes The Art of Status illuminates the shifting political significance of art on the international stage from ownership to restitution Contemporary Issues In Mediation - Volume 7 Joel Lee, Marcus Lim, Tristan Tan, Josephine Hadikusumo, Alvin Sim, 2022-10-25 Contemporary Issues in Mediation CIIM Volume 7 builds on the success of the past six volumes as a testament to a growing interest of authors and readers in the wide variety of issues related to mediation With the entry into force of the Singapore Convention on Mediation in 2020 mediation is and will continue to be increasingly pertinent in the world of dispute resolution Readers stand to benefit from a diverse range of topics selected for their high quality of research and novelty CIIM Volume 7 explores the role of mediation in the post pandemic era providing interesting perspectives on issues ranging from victim offender disputes in the community to the resolution of inter state armed conflicts Edited by Singapore s leading expert on mediation and negotiation and Chairman of Singapore International Mediation Institute Professor Joel Lee Country Manager Singapore for Lupl Marcus Lim and Managing Partner of CJ Liew Co Josephine Hadikusumo CIIM is a unique and valuable addition to the growing body of mediation and dispute resolution literature Trailblazed , Racism, Diplomacy, and International Relations Ko Unoki, 2022-02-21 Unoki addresses the significance of racism in international relations by focusing on its conception as a doctrine and its interrelationship with imperialism its doctrinal role in the development of the discipline of International Relations IR and various episodes from Western and Asian history in which racism had affected state behavior and the practice of diplomacy The creation of empires that oppressed indigenous peoples the two World Wars and the campaigns of ethnic cleansing and genocide that accompanied these wars and other conflicts and international movements calling for the elimination of racial discrimination attest to the impact racial prejudice or racism has had on international relations Despite this history racism s relevance is seldom mentioned in IR courses offered in universities or IR textbooks Instead IR scholars have often explained the behavior of states using the framework of theories that highlight variables and themes such as power fear and the search for security in an anarchic world Unoki demonstrates that racism has not only substantially influenced the course of international relations but that it continues to do so in the 21st century making it imperative that policymakers are aware of racism s deleterious legacy A vital resource for students policymakers and those who are interested in building a more tolerant and just world Business Trends in the Digital Era Xiaoming Zhu, Bingying Song, Yingzi Ni, Yifan Ren, Rui Li, 2016-05-31 This book introduces 10 mega business trends ranging from big data to the O2O model By mining and analyzing mountains of data the author identifies these 10 emerging trends and goes to great lengths to explain and support his views with up to date cases By incorporating the latest developments this book allows readers to keep abreast of rapidly advancing digital technologies and business models In this time of mass entrepreneurship and
