Mr Chinas Son A Villagers Life:

Mr. China's Son Liyi He, 2018-02-19 He Liyi belongs to one of China's minorities the Bai and he lives in a remote area of northwestern Yunnan Province. In 1979 his wife sold her fattest pig to buy him a shortwave radio. He spent every spare moment listening to the BBC and VOA in order to improve the English he had learned at college between 1950 and 1953. For further practice he decided to write down his life story in English. Humorous and unfiltered by translation his autobiography is direct and personal, full of richly descriptive images and phrases from his native Bai language. At the time of He Liyi's graduation English was being vilified as the language of the imperialists so the job he was assigned had nothing to do with his education. In 1958 he was labeled a rightist and sent to a reeducation through labor farm. Spirited away by truck on the eve of his marriage Mr He spent years in the labor camp where he schemed to garner favor from the authorities who nevertheless shamed him publicly and told him that all his problems belong to contradictions between the people and the enemy. After his release in 1962 the talented Mr He had no choice but to return to his native village as a peasant. His stratagems for survival which included stealing nightsoil from public toilets and extracting peach pit oil from thousands of peaches personify the peasant's universal struggle to endure during those difficult years. He Liyi's autobiography recounts nearly all the major events of China's recent history including the Japanese occupation, the Communist victory over the Nationalists in 1949, Mao's disastrous Great Leap Forward and Cultural Revolution, the experience of the labor camps and changes brought about by China's dramatic re-opening to the world since Deng Xiaoping came to power in 1978. No other book so poignantly reveals the travails of the common person and village life under China's tempestuous Communist government which He Liyi ironically refers to as Mr China. Yet he describes his saga of poverty and hardship with humor and a surprising lack of bitterness. And rarely has there been such an intimate, frank view of how a Chinese man thinks and feels about personal relationships revealed in dialogue and letters to his two wives. He Liyi's autobiography stands as perhaps the most readable and authentic account available in English of life in rural China. He Liyi's previous book is The Spring of Butterflies London and New York 1985 a translation of Chinese folk tales.

Gao Village Mobo C. F. Gao, 1999-01-01 This book is about Gao Village in Jiangxi province where the author was born and brought up, leaving when he was twenty-one to study English at Xiamen University. Since emigrating to Australia in 1990 he has returned every year to Gao Village where his brother still lives. Several accounts of village life in China have been published but all have been by Western or urban Chinese scholars. Mobo Gao's account is in every sense one from the inside. Though written as an academic work it does not eschew personal stories and experiences relevant to the themes addressed. These cover a forty-year period and fall into four distinct themes: the village before and after land reform, the commune system, the dismantling of the communes, and the unfolding impact of the market economy including increased migration to urban areas from the late 1980s onwards.

Eyler,2019-02-15 Celebrated for its natural beauty and its abundance of wildlife the Mekong river runs thousands of miles through China Myanmar Laos Thailand Cambodia and Vietnam Its basin is home to more than 70 million people and has for centuries been one of the world's richest agricultural areas and a biodynamic wonder. Today however it is undergoing profound changes. Development policies led by a rising China in particular aim to interconnect the region and urbanize the inhabitants. And a series of dams will harness the river's energy while also stymieing its natural cycles and cutting off food supplies for swathes of the population. In Last Days of the Mighty Mekong Brian Eyler travels from the river's headwaters in China to its delta in southern Vietnam to explore its modern evolution. Along the way he meets the region's diverse peoples from villagers to community leaders, politicians to policy makers. Through conversations with them he reveals the urgent struggle to save the Mekong and its unique ecosystem. South-West China Bradley Mayhew, Thomas Huhti, 1998

Unger, 2016-09-16 During the past quarter century Jonathan Unger has interviewed farmers and rural officials from various parts of China in order to track the extraordinary changes that have swept the countryside from the Maoist era through the Deng era to the present day. A leading specialist on rural China, Professor Unger presents a vivid picture of life in rural areas during the Maoist revolution and then after the post Mao disbandment of the collectives. This is a story of unexpected continuities amidst enormous change. Unger describes how rural administrations retain Mao era characteristics despite the major shifts that have occurred in the economic and social hierarchies of villages as collectivization and class struggle gave way to the slogan to get rich is glorious. A chapter explores the private entrepreneurship that has blossomed in the prosperous parts of the countryside. Another focuses on the tensions and exploitation that have arisen as vast numbers of migrant laborers from poor districts have poured into richer ones. Another based on five months of travel by jeep into impoverished villages in the interior describes the dilemmas of under development still faced by many tens of millions of farmers and the ways in which government policies have inadvertently hurt their livelihoods. Village Life in China Arthur

H. Smith, 1899 Tales from the Development Frontier Hinh T. Dinh, Thomas G. Rawski, Ali Zafar, Lihong Wang, Eleonora Mavroiedi, 2013-09-16 Tales from the Development Frontier presents analytical reviews and case studies that show how selected countries have developed light manufacturing to create jobs and foster prosperity.
