

MR. CARNEGIE'S NEW YEAR GREETING

From New York Tribune, January 1, 1903

The world, led by the American Republic, took a long step upward in the closing days of the year just gone, 1902.

Last century one Russian Emperor, Alexander II, and one American President, Lincoln, banished from the civilized world human slavery—the owning of man by man.

To-day another Russian Emperor, Nicholas II, and another American President, Roosevelt, have jointly pronounced the coming banishment of earth's most revolting spectacle—human war—the killing of man by man.

The former suggested, the latter breathed the breath of life into, The Hague tribunal, the permanent high court of humanity, for the peaceful settlement of international disputes. Henceforth the nation which refuses to submit its quarrel to this tribunal places itself in the wrong; the world will believe it has not its "quarrel just." This will disturb its conscience and shorten its sword.

Differences may still arise which may not be submitted, the barbarous appeal to force may still disgrace our civilization for a time, the embers and scoriae from the seething pit of savagery may explode here and there at longer and longer intervals as time passes, but the complete banishment of war draws near. Its death wound dates from the day that President Roosevelt led five opposing powers, four being of the very first rank, to the Court of Peace, and thus proclaimed it the appointed substitute for that which had hitherto stained the earth—the killing of men by each other.

These four rulers must ever rank among the supreme benefactors of man. Whatsoever may lie upon the laps of the gods for the two still in the midst of their careers, it seems impossible that any other service they may yet render can approach that which has insured them enduring fame among the highest.

It is when such a step forward as this is taken that we are reverently moved to exclaim, "Truly all is well since all grows better; man marches upward!"

ANDREW CARNEGIE

To President Roosevelt.
