the field address whether the Obama administration's strategy represents a renewal of U.S. engagement. To what extent has this administration succeeded in building both the domestic and international constituencies needed to implement its foreign policy goals? How exactly have Obama's policies regarding drone strikes, prisoner abuse, extraordinary rendition, and climate change differed from Bush era policies? Contributors provide detailed assessments of these and many other key questions. Designed to fit easily into courses on U.S. foreign policy, the volume's first part looks at policy formulation while the second part tackles policy domains. An extensive bibliography makes a great student resource for further research.

Shaping and Signaling Presidential Policy Meena Bose, Meenekshi Bose, 1998

Making Foreign Policy David Mitchell, 2019-05-23

Originally published in 2005, David Mitchell provides a better understanding of the role presidents play in the decision making process in terms of their influence on two key steps in the process: deliberation and outcome of policy making. The events that have taken place in relation to the Bush administration's decisions to fight the war on terrorism and invade Iraq highlight how important it is to understand the president's role in formulating policy. This influential study presents an advisory system theory of decision making to examine cases of presidential policy formulation drawn from the Nixon, Carter, Reagan, Clinton, and Bush administrations. Easily accessible to scholars, graduates, and advanced undergraduates interested in U.S. foreign policy or foreign policy analysis, presidential studies, and bureaucracy and public administrations, scholars and to practitioners and those with a general interest in International Relations.

Sanctions as Economic Statecraft S. Chan, A. Drury, 2000-07-14

This book approaches economic sanctions as a form of statecraft in order to better study the oft-used but not well-understood policy. The chapters study a variety of historical and current cases involving the use of economic threats and promises. Their authors come from both academic and policy making fields as well as different disciplinary backgrounds: political science and economics. They apply different research approaches: case studies, statistical analysis, formal economics to increase our understanding of the sanction puzzle.
