The Darkness of God Denys Turner, 1998-11-05 For the medieval mystical tradition the Christian soul meets God in a cloud of unknowing a divine darkness of ignorance This meeting with God is beyond all knowing and beyond all experiencing Mysticism of the modern period on the contrary place mystical experience at the centre and contemporary readers are inclined to misunderstand the medieval tradition in experientialist terms Denys Turner argues that the distinctiveness and contemporary relevance of medieval mysticism lies precisely in its rejection of mystical experience and locates the mystical firmly within the grasp of the ordinary and the everyday The argument covers some central authorities in the period from Augustine to John of the Cross

The Spirit's Relation to the Risen Lord in Paul Mehrdad Fatehi, 2000 Mehrdad Fatehi studies Paul s letters and shows that the risen Lord is featured in the religious experiences of Paul and the Pauline believers as the present and active lord of the new covenant community These experiences seem to point beyond the notion of a divine agent alongside God to a redefinition of the very concept of God in a way that it would include Christ within itself This is confirmed by the way Paul and the Pauline communities believed themselves to have experienced the risen Lord through God s Spirit In Judaism in general as well as in Paul the Spirit was not regarded as an entity distinct or separable from God but as God himself in his presence and action in and among his people Yet we have clear evidence in Paul s letters that the risen Christ was experienced and conceived of as being present and active through the Spirit bestowing grace and gracious gifts infusing wisdom communicating his will regenerating and transforming his people and dwelling in and among them all through the Spirit in a way which is best understood after the analogy of God s presence and work through the Spirit in Judaism In other words Paul s the Spirit of Christ is best understood after the analogy of the Spirit of God Paul s application of the Spirit language to describe and interpret the Christians experiences of the risen Lord shows that Paul most probably presupposed a redefinition of monotheism in which Christ would be included within the Godhead The Sunday Word Henry
