Revolution in Science I. Bernard Cohen, 1985 Cohen's exploration seeks to uncover nothing less than the nature of all scientific revolutions the stages by which they occur their time scale specific criteria for determining whether or not there has been a revolution and the creative factors in producing a revolutionary new idea Marxism in the Chinese Revolution Arif Dirlik, 2005-06-07 Representing a lifetime of research and writing by noted historian Arif Dirlik the essays collected here explore developments in Chinese socialism and the issues that have occupied historians of the Chinese revolution for the past three decades Dirlik engages Chinese socialism critically but with sympathy for the aspirations of revolutionaries who found the hope of social political and cultural liberation in Communist alternatives to capitalism and the intellectual inspiration to realize their hopes in Marxist theory The book's historical approach to Marxist theory emphasizes its global relevance while avoiding dogmatic and Eurocentric limitations These incisive essays range from the origins of socialism in the early twentieth century through the victory of the Communists in mid century to the virtual abandonment by century s end of any pretense to a socialist revolutionary project by the leadership of the Chinese Communist Party All that remains of the revolution in historical hindsight are memories of its failures and misdeeds but Dirlik retains a critical perspective not just toward the past but also toward the ideological hegemonies of the present Taken together his writings reaffirm the centrality of the revolution to modern Chinese history They also illuminate the fundamental importance of Marxism to grasping the flaws of capitalist modernity despite the fact that in the end the socialist response was unable to transcend the social and ideological horizons of capitalism

Staging Chinese Revolution Xiaomei Chen,2016-11-08 Staging Chinese Revolution surveys fifty years of theatrical propaganda performances in China revealing a dynamic commercial capacity in works often dismissed as artifacts of censorship Spanning the 1960s through the 2010s Xiaomei Chen reads films plays operas and television shows from an interdisciplinary and comparative perspective demonstrating how in a socialist state with capitalist characteristics propaganda performance turns biographies memoirs and war stories into mainstream ideological commodities legitimizing the state and its right to rule Analyzing propaganda performance also brings contradictions and inconsistencies to light that throw common understandings about propaganda s purpose into question Chen focuses on revisionist histories that stage the lives of the founding fathers of the Communist Party such as Chen Duxiu Mao Zedong and Deng Xiaoping and the engaging mix of elite and ordinary characters that animate official propaganda in the private and public sphere Taking the form of personal memories and representing star and youth culture and cyberspace contemporary Chinese propaganda appeals through multiple perspectives complicating relations among self subject agent state building and national identity Chen treats Chinese performance as an extended form of political theater confronting critical issues of commemoration nostalgia state rituals and contested history It is through these reenactments that three generations of revolutionary leaders loom in extraordinary ways over Chinese politics and culture
