Constructivism and the Geometric Tradition, 1982 Russian Suprematist and Constructivist Art 1910-1930 Fisher Fine Art. [Londres.], 1976 Kazimir Malevich Rainer Crone, David Moos, 1991 Malevich's sudden and startling realization of a non-objective way of painting which he termed Suprematism stands as a seminal moment in the history of twentieth-century art. Rainer Crone and David Moos trace the artist's development from his beginnings in the Ukraine and early years in Moscow where he was closely involved in the Futurist circle through to the late 1920s and beyond. The authors of this book convincingly demonstrate that it is only through a close and sustained reading of Malevich's late and still widely misunderstood painterly oeuvre that his extraordinarily inventive stance can truly be comprehended. Crone and Moos trace the close relationship between Malevich's practice and other contemporary non-political revolutions in physics, linguistics and poetry. They present Malevich as a uniquely creative artist embodying in his work many of the insights and discoveries that define the twentieth century and the condition of modern life. Twentieth-Century Russian and East European Painting John E. Bowlton, Nicoletta Misler, Sammlung Thyssen-Bornemisza, 1993 At the heart of this pioneering study is the result of exhaustive comparative research in Russian, European and American collections: an illustrated catalogue which provides detailed descriptions of each work in the context of the artist's career and the broader artistic developments of the age. The condition, provenance and previous location of the works are also detailed. The catalogue is introduced by three essays: The Russian Avant-Garde, the Hungarian Avant-Garde and the history of the collecting of Russian Avant-Garde art. The volume concludes with artists' biographies, bibliographical information, a glossary and index. A catalogue of 59 works written by two of the most eminent scholars in the field. Russian Painters and the Stage, 1884-1965 John E.
