Hawksworth, 2003-06-26 Periodic comprehensive overviews of the status of the diverse organisms that make up wildlife are essential to determining trends threats and future prospects Just over 25 years ago leading authorities on different kinds of wildlife came together to prepare an assessment of their status of a wide range of organisms in Great Britain and Ireland i      The Birds of Gwent Gwent Ornithological society, 2009-01-01 The County Avifauna series provides detailed information on the range and status of bird species at county level Areas covered so far include Norfolk Suffolk Dorset the Shetland Islands and the Isles of Scilly with The Birds of Essex in press Each title includes a breakdown of rarity records and there are introductory sections describing the area's ecology climate ornithological history and conservation record as well as a gazetteer of the best sites to visit Gwent contains a wide range of habitats in a relatively small area including estuarine wetland in the south valleys in the west and uplands in the north with heavily wooded areas in the Usk and Wye valleys Major sites include the Newport Wetlands which attracts visitors from throughout Wales and the west of England to its wet grassland saline lagoons and freshwater reedbeds Other important sites include Peterstone Wentlooge along the Severn Estuary west of Newport and Llandegfedd Reservoir      Irish Birds ,1998      Conserving Bird

Biodiversity Ken Norris, Deborah J. Pain, 2002-06-06 The earth's biodiversity currently faces an extinction crisis that is unprecedented. Conservationists attempt to intervene in the extinction process either locally by protecting or restoring important species and habitats or at national and international levels by influencing key policies and promoting debate. Reliable information is the foundation upon which these efforts are based, which places research at the heart of biodiversity conservation. The role of research in such conservation is diverse. It includes understanding why biodiversity is important, defining units of biodiversity, priority setting for species and sites, managing endangered and declining populations, understanding large scale processes, making predictions about the future, and interfacing with training, education, public awareness, and policy initiatives. Using examples from a wide range of bird conservation work worldwide, researchers consider the principles underlying these issues and illustrate how these principles have been applied to address actual conservation problems for students, practitioners, and researchers in conservation biology. Marine Ornithology, 2005. Manx Bird Atlas Christopher Martyn Sharpe, 2007. The Manx Bird Atlas project was established to undertake the first comprehensive survey of all bird species to be found on the Island during both the winter and summer. During the five year programme of work, professional ornithologists surveyed the entire Island using new and innovative survey techniques. The survey, which ran from 1998 to 2003, is the most detailed of its kind ever undertaken in Europe. Such methods have generated data that provides distribution and abundant information for 150 species. Beautiful hand-drawn illustrations and full colour maps sit alongside the survey in this landmark publication. Whether you are an amateur or professional ornithologist or simply interested in the natural beauty of the Isle of Man, this long-awaited book provides a fascinating account of the Island's bird life. A beautiful special edition of the volume, case-bound and in a slipcase, is also available for 100.00. Seabird Populations of Britain and Ireland P. Ian Mitchell, 2004. This book summarises the findings of Seabird 2000, a major national initiative to census all the breeding seabirds in Britain and Ireland, which incorporates the work of over 400 individuals counting seabird numbers and coastal and inland sites over 15 years. There is an account for each breeding species with text by a specialist author discussing distributional characteristics and changes. There are 2 maps per species, one pinpointing each breeding colony and another expressing expansion, decline, extinction, and new colonization. The British Isles are of global importance for breeding seabirds: over 4 million pairs from 25 species breed here, including almost all of the world's Manx Shearwaters and Northern Gannets. This is a readable and comprehensive distillation of the most exhaustive and detailed survey of seabird numbers in Britain ever conducted. It will be a fascinating read for all birders and an essential resource for everyone involved in the
